MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon sent his labor secretary here today to talk to increasingly resentful labor leaders about his plans to curb inflationary wage-price pressures on the nation's economy.

The assignment of Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson was to continue efforts to work out a system of wage-price restraints with AFL-CIO construction unions. But a major union leader also expressed concern about rumors of more general White House economic controls.

"Controls of any kind I would oppose," said United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel, whose union is demanding large wage increases this year for 750,000 workers in the steel, copper, aluminum and can industries.

Abel said his union wants the freedom to negotiate catch-up wage and cost-of-living agreements without White House interference.

Nixon aides have hinted at the possibility of a construction wage-price freeze. The President extended his own 30-day deadline for working out a voluntary plan when he decided to send Hodgson there for further talks.

Nixon said in Washington Wednesday night Hodgson made the trip with the aim of halting an upward spiral in construction industry wages and prices.

If a voluntary agreement cannot be worked out, Nixon said, "there will be action."

The 17 AFL-CIO building and construction trade unions have refused so far to offer any voluntary wage restraints. Nixon's original deadline expired Wednesday.

Union sources said Hodgson would try to bargain for the cooperation of the construction unions in some plan short of a wage-price freeze. The plan reportedly could involve a White House offer to shift federal construction money in such a way as to create more jobs in exchange for cooperation to ease industry costs.

The unions, in turn, reportedly will cite a newly signed agreement with the construction industry designed to halt costly jurisdictional strikes and streamline work rules for greater production as their contribution to easing costs.

Nixon Seeks Way To Halt Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress to allow him either to implement emergency board recommendations or to allow a limited strike if a nationwide rail dispute is not settled by March 1.

The proposal was submitted Saturday but made public Wednesday after Congress returned from a Washington Birthday holiday. The message was written before negotiations for the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks signed an agreement Sunday easing the threat of a March 1 strike.

That date marks the expiration of a strike ban voted by Congress last Dec. 10 to halt a brief walkout.

The 108,000 member clerks union is the largest of four AFL-CIO unions involved in the dispute. Settlement of the wages and work-rules dispute would leave only the United Transportation Union without a settlement.

The Brotherhood of Maintenance Workers and Hotel and Restaurant Employees reached agreement Feb. 4.

Nixon's first proposal would require establishment of a special commission to decide on application of the earlier recommendations by a special board.

The second alternative would allow the parties to undertake a limited strike or lockout as long as it didn't endanger the nation's health and safety.

The Cleveland Democrat introduced three bills, all aimed at collecting more money for local governments, especially Cleveland, where recent tax levy defeats and rising costs have prompted cutbacks in service and the layoffs of city workers.

Russo reassured House members, however, "the bills would help other urban centers, and, at the same time, would not harm rural areas."

The three-bill package could claim as much as $35 million annually in additional money for the Cleveland area alone, Russo said.

One of the measures permits local governments to tax the net income of public utilities,

South Viets Cut Red Supply Trails

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces cut three major North Vietnamese supply routes through southern Laos and drove back two Communist attacks in eastern Cambodia, killing 116 of the enemy, military spokesmen announced today.

Heavy American air strikes along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border, about midway between the two ground drives, hit at North Vietnamese buildups threatening South Vietnam's central highlands, and another 56 enemy were reported killed.

The strikes could presage a new South Vietnamese push into northeast Cambodia. About 2,500 South Vietnamese troops are massed 12 miles from the border.

A spokesman for the South Vietnamese command also announced that 16,000 Saigon troops are now operating in Laos, an increase of 5,000, and 1,600 fresh troops have been committed to the Cambodian campaign.

The battle fronts shaped up this way:

—16,000 South Vietnamese operating in Laos cut east-west Route 9 between the border and the transshipment point of Sepone, and Routes 92 and 921 going south from Route 9.

—2,500 Saigon troops are in South Vietnam's central highlands, 12 miles from northeastern Cambodia and 200 miles south of the Route 9 operation.

—23,000 South Vietnamese troops are operating another 200 miles farther south on a 100-mile front, blocking Highways 1 and 7 leading from eastern Cambodia into the southern half of South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese forces continued to put up stiff resistance, both in Laos and Cambodia, with heavy anti-aircraft fire thrown up at the hundreds of U.S. helicopters supporting the drives.

Spokesmen announced that three more helicopters and an F4 Phantom fighter-bomber were downed in Laos. Three of the helicopter crewmen were rescued, but there was no report on the fate of the others.

Th two fliers aboard the F4 were missing.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the forwardmost elements of the Saigon forces in Laos had advanced westward about two miles and were now about 17 miles from the Vietnamese border and about eight miles from Sepone. South Vietnamese reconnaissance units have been moving in and out of Sepone since the operation began Feb. 8.

Spokesmen in Saigon claimed the going was slow because the troops were stopping to search out enemy caches, and rain and low clouds were limiting U.S. air support.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said American helicopters flew only 100 missions into Laos Wednesday, compared to more than 1,000 a day earlier.

There were indications from the field, however, that stiffening enemy resistance was also slowing the drive, and that the South Vietnamese were issuing incomplete reports on their casualties.

Report Reds Shift Supplies To Western Laotian Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the North Vietnamese may be switching their main supply shipments through Laos to a route west of the primary Ho Chi Minh Trail now under ground attack by South Vietnamese troops.

They said indications of increased truck traffic have been picked up by electronic sensors dropped from U.S. planes along Laotian Route 23, some 25 miles west of what has been the chief supply road complex from North Vietnam for years.

Senior Defense officials said after the South Vietnamese troops crossed the Laotian border last week the North Vietnamese might be compelled to put more traffic on Route 23 if the Ho Chi Minh Trail was threatened or overrun.

These officials said Hanoi has been reluctant to use Route 23 because much of it lacks the heavy jungle canopy which shields the Ho Chi Minh Trail and other key roads from air observation.

Eventually, the South Vietnamese are expected to try to cut Route 23, but so far the going has been slow in achieving the original objective, the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

In an operation code named "Igloo White," American jets have showered sensors along the Ho Chi Minh Trail for more than three years in a program which has cost more than $1.2 billion, counting research and development.

The sensors are made to look like jungle growth and, according to American experts, are very hard to find.

Moving trucks automatically activate a sensor and the signal is sent to specially equipped aircraft and then relayed to ground stations where they feed into a computer.

Trained analysts then can determine the number of trucks, their direction and speed. This information is fed to commands and air attacks are mounted.

The U.S. strike planes do not attempt pinpoint attacks, but blanket an area with cluster bombs and other explosives.

Corruption Probe Continues; Jury Indicts Sergeant-Major

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. William O. Woodridge, once the Army's top enlisted man, has been charged with criminal conspiracy as the same Senate panel that was told he defrauded servicemen's clubs on three continents probed graft in the worldwide military PX system.

As the Justice Department did in its charges against Woodridge, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Senate investigations subcommittee focused its gaze Wednesday on activities in Vietnam and heard of lavish gifts from a promoter to the military men and civilians who stock the department store-like Army-Air Force post exchanges.

Woodridge, five other past or present Army sergeants, two civilians and a firm owned by Woodridge and four of the others were indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on charges they conspired between 1965 and 1969 to defraud non-commissioned officers' clubs in Vietnam.

Testimony in the subcommittee's 1969 investigation of Woodridge, sergeant major of the Army from 1966 to 1968 but stripped of a high medal and command responsibilities during the probe, painted a picture of widespread payoffs, kickbacks and stealing among the sergeants who ran the NCO clubs. Woodridge currently is sergeant major at the White Sands missile range in New Mexico.

Wednesday's testimony centered around 52-year-old William J. Crum, an American businessman who allegedly parlayed money, women, liquor and a lavish Saigon villa into a military commendation and $40 million profit from a slot machine concession and liquor sales at clubs and PX's.

The subcommittee's chief investigator, LaVern Duffy, introduced a 45-page statement containing letters written by Crum, twice banned from dealing with the military during the Korean War, that boasted of seeing the beer of one of his clients in the house of Brig. Gen. Charles R. "Monk" Meyer and of "getting along like peas in a pod" with two civilian officials of the PX system in Southeast Asia.

Snow, Rain Hit Central Part Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and rain plagued a widening stretch of the midcontinent today as a growing storm spilled out of the southern Rockies onto the Plains.

Heavy-snow warnings were out for mountain areas of Colorado and southern Wyoming. Travel warnings were in effect for the mountains of Arizona and New Mexico.

Nine inches of snow piled up at Cedar City, Utah, through Wednesday. Thunder rumbled across Bryce Canyon as the snow fell there.

Moderate to heavy rain ranged eastward out of the storm center as far as the Mississippi Valley.

A separate and less intense storm dropped snow into sections of Pennsylvania, upstate New York and New England. Two to 3 inches blanketed some New York communities.

Unseasonably mild weather persisted in most areas from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the Atlantic. Overnight temperatures in the 40s and 50s were common from the central Plains to the Ohio Valley.

Model Cities Funds 'Freed'

White House
Changes Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has done an abrupt turnabout, administration sources reported today, on a plan to clamp a nationwide freeze as of next Dec. 31 on federal funds for the Model Cities program.

The original aim apparently was to "make a hostage of the Model Cities program" and other urban aid programs, officials said, to drum up support among big-city mayors for enactment of President Nixon's $16 billion revenue sharing proposals.

Letters to 147 mayors actually were drafted allotting Model Cities money up to the end of the calendar year and indicating that any further funds would have to come from the special revenue sharing plan for urban development.

Similar letters reportedly were planned to go out later setting a year-end freeze on appropriated money for such other antislum programs as urban renewal and sewer and water grants.

But the draft letters were killed after representatives of the National League of Cities and the conference of Mayors lodged strong protests in a meeting with officers of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city spokesmen protested the plan for arbitrary cutoff of appropriated funds, the alleged "hostage" tactic for bringing pressure on mayors, the absence of any negotiation on the allotments, and the possibility that 19 of the cities—those which had only reached the preliminary stage of the Model Cities program—would be left without any additional funds at all.

HUD officials obviously were acting on White House orders, some informants said. There was a period of confusion and indecision at HUD after the cities' objections were raised, until the letters finally were canceled.

"The plan was made by the White House and unmade by the White House," one official said.

Puts Hanoi On Notice To Curb War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has advised North Vietnam he is ready to retaliate with massive airpower anywhere it is needed in Indochina to protect American troops.

Repeating a pledge made three weeks ago by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the President said: "I am not going to place any limitation upon the use of airpower..." ruling out only nuclear weapons.

Nixon's statement at a news conference Wednesday in his Oval Office put Hanoi on notice that either of several thrusts could provoke a U.S. bombing response.

Although Indochina dominated the 40-minute news conference, Nixon made these other points:

—Should construction industry leaders fail to agree on a voluntary wage and price freeze, the federal government will use its power to bring about "more reasonable settlements" than the customary 16 per cent wage increase and to stabilize prices.

—Federal law does not allow the government to force zoning changes as a means of combating housing segregation.

—He is not surprised his revenue-sharing proposal has encountered rough sledding in Congress and among labor and business organizations.

Russell Quits As Interior Assistant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of Interior Fred J. Russell resigned Wednesday, the seventh high-level change at the department since President Nixon fired Secretary Walter J. Hickel last November, the Washington Post reported.

White House officials said Russell gave the President his resignation in an amicable meeting with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton and White House officials.

The White House said the resignation was caused by Russell's recognition that Morton should have the opportunity to name his own No. 2 man.

The Post, however, reported the resignation came about from pressure by Morton.

Interior Department sources, the Post said, reported Russell's departure was caused by his increasingly "strong pro-business stance."

Morton does not have the authority to fire Russell because he is a presidential appointee.

Russell was quoted as denying the report, saying "It doesn't represent any problem between Secretary Morton and me. I like him and I think he likes me."

Morton declined comment. Russell, a California multimillionaire, will be offered another high administrative post when he leaves the Interior Department, the Post reported.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio cities, hard pressed to pay for services citizens demand, found a new champion Wednesday in State Rep. Anthony J. Russo.

The Cleveland Democrat introduced three bills, all aimed at collecting more money for local governments, especially Cleveland, where recent tax levy defeats and rising costs have prompted cutbacks in service and the layoffs of city workers.

Russo reassured House members, however, "the bills would help other urban centers, and, at the same time, would not harm rural areas."

The three-bill package could claim as much as $35 million annually in additional money for the Cleveland area alone, Russo said.

One of the measures permits local governments to tax the net income of public utilities, financial institutions and insurance companies.

Another increases the proceeds of sales taxes paid to the local government fund. Both were defeated in the 108th General Assembly session.

The third Russo bill would permit municipalities to tax up to 10 per cent of a taxpayer's federal income tax liability, or higher if voters approve.

"This would broaden the base," Russo said. "Ten per cent of the federal income tax is comparable to a 1 per cent local payroll tax."

He said the bill would reach people who have dividends as well as "corporate structures that have profits."

Rep. Keith McNamara, R-64 Columbus, introduced a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for the election of the governor and lieutenant governor on a joint ballot.

The two offices are now filled by casting separate votes for each. The amendment would eliminate the possibility that a governor of one party and a lieutenant governor of another would serve together.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has criticized the existing setup as unfair. Gilligan, a Democrat, is now serving with Lt. Gov. John Brown, a Republican.

In case the governor could no longer serve, Brown would replace him.

The Senate, meanwhile, spent

ACCORDING to the American Heart Assn. thousands of Americans die of heart attack each year because they don't know the symptoms and wait too long to seek medical care. More than half the 600,000 persons who die each year succumb before they reach the hospital where their chances for survival would be improved.

Berger Hospital recently received the donation of a defibrillator heart monitoring device to replace the manual shock system previously used. The unit has a direct hook up to Columbus where a cardiologist is on duty 24 hours a day to read charts and graphs automatically transmitted to him by the machine and return immediately a report on the patient's condition.

Circleville has the means to help heart patients if they will take prompt action once certain symptoms develop.

Reuther Death Said Caused By Instrument

WASHINGTON (AP) — The plane crash which killed labor leader Walter Reuther, his wife and four other persons last May 9 probably was caused by a defective altimeter and a lack of landing lights at the Pellston, Mich., airport, the National Transportation Safety Board said today.

The board said examination of the wreckage showed no indication of pre-impact failure or malfunction of any other equipment.

However, it said some incorrect parts on the altitude-recording equipment had been installed, some parts were missing, one part was installed upside down, and another fitting was installed off center.

"Such conditions undoubtedly caused excessive friction," the board said. "While the evidence is not conclusive, the captain's altimeter was probably reading inaccurately."

The twin-engine Learjet L23A smashed into a grove of trees while descending on a nighttime flight from Detroit to the Emmet County airport near Pellston, Mich. It hit the trees, remained airborne for one-half mile and then crashed and burned.

The city spokesmen protested the plan for arbitrary cutoff of appropriated funds, the alleged "hostage" tactic for bringing pressure on mayors, the absence of any negotiation on the allotments, and the possibility that 19 of the cities—those which had only reached the preliminary stage of the Model Cities program—would be left without any additional funds at all.

HUD officials obviously were acting on White House orders, some informants said. There was a period of confusion and indecision at HUD after the cities' objections were raised, until the letters finally were canceled.

"The plan was made by the White House and unmade by the White House," one official said.

Puts Hanoi On Notice To Curb War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has advised North Vietnam he is ready to retaliate with massive airpower anywhere it is needed in Indochina to protect American troops.

Repeating a pledge made three weeks ago by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the President said: "I am not going to place any limitation upon the use of airpower..." ruling out only nuclear weapons.

Nixon's statement at a news conference Wednesday in his Oval Office put Hanoi on notice that either of several thrusts could provoke a U.S. bombing response.

Although Indochina dominated the 40-minute news conference, Nixon made these other points:

—Should construction industry leaders fail to agree on a voluntary wage and price freeze, the federal government will use its power to bring about "more reasonable settlements" than the customary 16 per cent wage increase and to stabilize prices.

—Federal law does not allow the government to force zoning changes as a means of combating housing segregation.

—He is not surprised his revenue-sharing proposal has encountered rough sledding in Congress and among labor and business organizations. "Down in the valley, where the people live, you will find there that the leaders in the front lines, the

Cleveland Demo Pushes Tax Bills In Assembly

By TAHLMAN KRUMM Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio cities, hard pressed to pay for services citizens demand, found a new champion Wednesday in State Rep. Anthony J. Russo.

The Cleveland Democrat introduced three bills, all aimed at collecting more money for local governments, especially Cleveland, where recent tax levy defeats and rising costs have prompted cutbacks in service and the layoffs of city workers.

Russo reassured House members, however, "the bills would help other urban centers, and, at the same time, would not harm rural areas."

The three-bill package could claim as much as $35 million annually in additional money for the Cleveland area alone, Russo said.

One of the measures permits local governments to tax the net income of public utilities, financial institutions and insurance companies.

Another increases the proceeds of sales taxes paid to the local government fund. Both were defeated in the 108th General Assembly session.

The third Russo bill would permit municipalities to tax up to 10 per cent of a taxpayer's federal income tax liability, or higher if voters approve.

"This would broaden the base," Russo said. "Ten per cent of the federal income tax is comparable to a 1 per cent local payroll tax."

He said the bill would reach people who have dividends as well as "corporate structures that have profits."

Rep. Keith McNamara, R-64 Columbus, introduced a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for the election of the governor and lieutenant governor on a joint ballot.

The two offices are now filled by casting separate votes for each. The amendment would eliminate the possibility that a governor of one party and a lieutenant governor of another would serve together.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has criticized the existing setup as unfair, Gilligan, a Democrat, is now serving with Lt. Gov. John Brown, a Republican.

In case the governor could no longer serve, Brown would replace him.

The Senate, meanwhile, spent

Health Care Plan Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed today a six-point, low-budgeted package of health-care proposals to insure adequate medical care for all American families through a vast expansion of private insurance reorganization of the medical care system.

In a 17-page message to Congress, Nixon offered a comprehensive alternative to Democratic proposals for national health insurance by emphasizing federal stimulation of reforms of the current medical care program.

His initiatives ranged from new legislation to require all businesses to furnish employees comprehensive private insurance to new federal backing for pre-paid group practice arrangements.

In addition, Nixon wants most of the present federal-state medical program for poor persons replaced with a new program of federally financed private health insurance; elimination of the $5.30 contribution by the elderly for supplemental medicare coverage; new arrangements for medical care in isolated rural and big ghetto areas; and major new financial support to increase the supply of doctors and other health personnel.

The President said his plan for a national health insurance partnership is designed to correct the inadequacies of the present system—"not by destroying our present insurance system but by improving it."

"Rather than giving up on a system which has been developing impressively," he said, "we should work to bring about further growth which will fill the gaps we have identified."

The President offered this reply to influential congressional Democrats who believe health care should be nationalized.

"I believe that our government and our people, business and labor, the insurance industry and the health profession can work together in a national partnership to achieve our health objectives. I do not believe that the achievement of these objectives requires the nationalization of our health insurance industry."

Nationalization, Nixon said, would mean "that federal personnel would inevitably be approving the budgets of local hospitals, setting fee schedules for local doctors, and taking other steps which could easily lead to the complete federal domination of all of American medicine."

"That is an enormous risk—and there is no need for us to take it," he said. "There is a better way—a more practical, more effective, less expensive and less dangerous way—to reform and renew our nation's health system."

Nixon included no overall cost estimate with his message. But the cost of individual items mentioned totaled $2.8 billion. This compares to cost estimates for the sweeping Democratic nationalization plans that range upwards from $50 billion a year.

The President placed heavy stress on requiring that all insurance programs, federal and private, allow recipients to enroll in so-called health maintenance organizations.

Such medical groups offer enrollees comprehensive care ranging from prevention through hospitalization for a fixed annual premium.

The President budgeted $45 million as planning and start-up money for a nationwide network of the maintenance organizations. A handful of these now exist, ranging from the health insurance plans in New York City to the Kaiser Permanent Foundation in California.

He also included no overall cost estimate with his message.

an afternoon working in bipartisan harmony, a condition not likely to survive the 109th General Assembly session.

Two bills introduced into the upper chamber, if adopted, would bring significant changes to existing state agencies.

Sens. Oliver Oakes, D - 27 Akron, and William Taft, R-28 Cleveland, jointly sponsored a measure to make statutory the function and composition of the state controlling board, watchdog of state spending.

The board is now created anew every two years as part of the state's appropriation bill, and is made up of a governor's representative, the chairmen of the House and Senate finance committees, and a Republican and a Democrat from each house of the assembly.

Under the Oakes-Taft bill the board would be comprised of three members of each house—two of the three representing the majority party — and the state director of finance.

Another reorganizational bill would replace the present 24-member state board of education with a nine-member board appointed by the governor.

Under present law, the board members are elected from each of Ohio's 24 Congressional districts. Remuneration to members covers only the expenses of membership duties.

Under the proposal, sponsored by Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, members of the board would serve for a three-year term at a salary of $5,000 a year.

The Senate by unanimous voice vote also approved six Gilligan cabinet appointments, scotching rumors that open hearings would be held for each.

Approved were: Gene Abercrombie, Cincinnati, director of agriculture; Ronald J. Coffey, Cleveland, director of commerce; Richard E. Guggenheim, Cincinnati, director of liquor control; Harold A. Hovey, Columbus, director of finance; J. Phillip Richey, Youngstown, director of highways; and, William B. Nye, Akron, director of the department of natural resources.

The mountains ring the northeast edge of the San Fernando Valley where the tremors Feb. 9 shook down buildings and bridges, killed 64 persons and caused damage in the millions of dollars.

Geologists, seismologists and earthquake engineers from universities and state and federal agencies working with an unprecedented amount of data from the quake paint this picture:

The focus, or center, was 10 miles deep in the earth beneath brush-covered Soledad Canyon, running east-west in the San Gabriels. The canyon is about 10 miles north of Sylmar, the San Fernando Valley community where earth motion was the greatest.

The tremors in the Los Angeles suburb shook down a 45-year-old Veterans Administration hospital, killing 45, destroyed a new $23.5-million hospital and extensively damaged streets, homes and utility systems.

The shaking began when a hunk of the earth's crust, similar to the upper layer of the cake, slipped along a fault, or crack, that began 10 miles deep and ran upward and southward, reaching the surface southeast of Sylmar. The slippage caused the San Gabriel Mountains to move upward and southward along the fault.

This thrusting movement broke the earth's surface along an east-west line several miles southeast of Sylmar. Seismologists found evidence of the breakage and movement in gaping cracks in the ground and displacement of the neat rows of trees in an orange grove.

The surface breakage, the scientists said, explains why the Sylmar area was subjected to such intense shaking, although the quake epicenter was 10 miles away in Soledad Canyon.

Most earthquakes result when the earth's crust moves horizontally along vertical faults, concentrating damage in the area around the epicenter.

The President spoke confidently of the U.S.-supported drive in southern Laos by South Vietnamese forces. While resistance on the road to Sepone has been severe, he said, three supply trails leading toward South Vietnam were cut and the operation has gone according to plan.

By coupling this report with a bombing warning, the President appeared to notify Hanoi that a new push across the DMZ could find North Vietnam the target of full-scale American bombing.

"I think the very fact that I intend to take strong action to deal with that incursion means that they are not going to take it," Nixon said.

In any event, the President said, the Laotian operation had his approval although it is mostly in South Vietnamese hands.

The lineup is a sharp shift from two years ago when the House approved new SST funds 126 to 64. Last year the House again voted for new SST money but by a narrower 205-185 margin.

The Senate, the focal point of SST objections in the past, voted 52-41 last year to halt taxpayer money to the program.

The House-Senate standoff may be settled next month. In the meantime funding is continuing at last year's level.

Wholesale Price Hike Adds Woe To Economic Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration already weighing a get-tough policy to curb inflation, has new evidence gentle persuasion has failed to change the direction of most economic indicators.

The latest problem was in the wholesale price index, which jumped seven-tenths of one percent in January, as reported Wednesday, biggest monthly increase in a year. That's sometimes an indication of the consumer price trend which last year rose 5.5 per cent.

More uneasiness was reflected in another Wednesday report showing competition between banks and savings and loan associations is bolstering interest rates on savings. This, too, is an area in which the administration hopes for a shift to stabilize the economy.

Families tucked away 7 per cent of their disposable income last year and experts in the field say passbook interest rates should hold constant at 4½ to 5 per cent in the months ahead.

"I don't think the ceilings are going to come down," said Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. "We're not as a board considering any such move at this time."

Nixon's standard response to bad fiscal news until lately has been to predict his expansionary policies plus voluntary anti-inflation moves by labor and industry would bring the economy into line.

But in the last few days he has been changing his tune and pointing toward possible direct government intervention.

At a news conference Wednesday the President again said "there will be action" if the government fails to get a voluntary pledge from the construction industry next week to hold down prices and wages.

"The construction industry is a sick industry, not because of the quality of work but because of too rich a diet," Nixon said. "It is essential that the federal government use the power it can to bring about reasonable settlements and price stability."

In a less forceful but still direct move to spark the housing market, the government Wednesday lowered the maximum allowable interest rate to 7 per cent on mortgages it backs through the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. That reduces the rate to 1968 levels, after a high last year of 8½ per cent.

Another indication of economic discomfort Wednesday was some administration confusion over the Gross National Product.

The President is counting on a spectacular 9-per cent rise in the Gross National Product this year to revive the economy and hold his fiscal 1971-72 federal deficit to about $30 billion.

Graphic Picture Of Quakes Drawn By Geology Experts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists say a mountain range lurched three feet upward and three feet sideways last week, cracking the earth and causing the devastating earthquake that rocked Southern California.

The movement of the San Gabriel Mountains can be likened to tilting a layer cake 60 degrees then pushing the top layer up and to the side, breaking the icing.

6 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cuyahoga, Greene, Lucas Franklin and Butler County residents are counted among the latest traffic accident victims in the state. Some were killed when their cars skidded on icy patches of highway.

The dead:
TOLEDO — Richard Scott, 36, of Maumee, died early Thursday in Toledo Hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday night when his automobile skidded on Toledo's West Side and struck a utility pole.

CLEVELAND — Felicitia Latino, 74, of suburban Independence, died Wednesday night in a minor traffic collision. Authorities said the victim had a heart condition. The coroner will rule in the death.

XENIA — Scott Stevens, six-month-old son of Mrs. Sandra Stevens of Jamestown, was killed Wednesday when a car driven by his mother collided with another automobile on U.S. 35 east of Xenia in Greene County.

BUTLER — James Marcum, 46, of Hamilton was killed early Thursday when his auto hit a tree on Jacksonburg Road north of Ohio 127.

COLUMBUS — Mrs. Patricia Burke, 22, was injured fatally Thursday morning in a collision involving three automobiles on 17th Avenue.

DEFIANCE — Dona Bender, 18, of near Defiance, was killed early Thursday when her automobile collided with a steel truck about three miles west of Napoleon on Ohio 24. The truck driver, Don Bauer, 30, of New London, suffered minor injuries in the crash.

COLUMBUS MEN Bound To Jury

Terry Lee Richardson, 22, and Henry Nott, 23, both of Columbus, were bound to the Grand Jury under $50,000 bond each by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

The two have been charged by Circleville Police with breaking into the home of Dr. Robert Smith, 918 Circle Drive on Sunday evening.

Michael D. Hale, Wadsworth, was fined $150 and costs for driving while intoxicated and $50 and costs for using profane language to the arresting officer. In addition Judge Lamb sentenced Hale to three days in the county jail and ordered his driving rights suspended for six months.

William M. Hoffman, 23, 385 Edwards Road, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

James Sexton, 28, Laurelville, forfeited a $34 bond for operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Ashville Clubs Plan Industry Reception

Ashville Business Men's Club and Community Club will host a reception Sunday in honor of the village's new industry, Columbus Industries, Inc.

The reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at the First English Lutheran Church, Long St. in Ashville.

Columbus Industries will have an exhibit of the products it manufactures. The reception is open to the public.

Fanciful and factual, books about animals are featured this week. First is "Bobo's Dream" by Martha Alexander, another of those charming story books without words. Bobo is a daschund whose dream of heroism is a delightful flight of fancy. He towers over little boys and rescues his master's football, while his eyes are closed, of course.

Brian Wildsmith, the man with the multicolored paintbrush, has again put his shimmering hues in a children's book. "The Miller, the Boy and the Donkey" is not much of a story. But who cares? Each page is a charming work of art and can enchant the beholder.

In his usual zany fashion, Bill Peet has another sure winner on his hands with "Whingdingdilly." Though not so long and involved as Geisel's Dr. Seuss books, Peet's have that same illogical charm. The Whingdingdilly is a dilly of an animal—when he isn't a dog!

Nathaniel Benchley had his tongue in cheek when he wrote "The Flying Lesson of Gerald Pelican." Boys and girls may enjoy hearing about how Gerald escaped the giant barracuda. But grownups will know he, Benchley, was talking about the generation gap. They'll relish the ending, in which age and experience triumph.

Who ever heard of a mouse on a bicycle? Beverly Cleary, that's who. "Runaway Ralph" is a daredevil. He has appeared in other Cleary Books, but never in such an appealing way. While he is beguiling his junior readers, he is telling them something important about running away.

North Vietnam Claims Nixon Plans Invasion

PARIS (AP) — Communist delegates to the Vietnam peace talks charged today that President Nixon is preparing to attack North Vietnam and warned that such a move would threaten Communist China.

Xuan Thuy, head of the Hanoi delegation, told newsmen as he entered the 103rd session of the talks that Nixon's statements at his news conference Wednesday "prove he will not negotiate seriously but is hoping for a military victory . . . He is preparing new military adventures against North Vietnam, which would constitute a threat to the People's Republic of China."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong delegation, also spoke of the threat to North Vietnam and charged that Nixon is "imprudently trying to impose neo-colonial proposals at the Paris peace talks."

He also included no overall cost estimate with his message.

Health Care Plan Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed today a six-point, low-budgeted package of health-care proposals to insure adequate medical care for all American families through a vast expansion of private insurance reorganization of the medical care system.

In a 17-page message to Congress, Nixon offered a comprehensive alternative to Democratic proposals for national health insurance by emphasizing federal stimulation of reforms of the current medical care program.

His initiatives ranged from new legislation to require all businesses to furnish employees comprehensive private insurance to new federal backing for pre-paid group practice arrangements.

In addition, Nixon wants most of the present federal-state medical program for poor persons replaced with a new program of federally financed private health insurance; elimination of the $5.30 contribution by the elderly for supplemental medicare coverage; new arrangements for medical care in isolated rural and big ghetto areas; and major new financial support to increase the supply of doctors and other health personnel.

The President said his plan for a national health insurance partnership is designed to correct the inadequacies of the present system—"not by destroying our present insurance system but by improving it."

"Rather than giving up on a system which has been developing impressively," he said, "we should work to bring about further growth which will fill the gaps we have identified."

The President offered this reply to influential congressional Democrats who believe health care should be nationalized:

"I believe that our government and our people, business and labor, the insurance industry and the health profession can work together in a national partnership to achieve our health objectives. I do not believe that the achievement of these objectives requires the nationalization of our health insurance industry."

Nationalization, Nixon said, would mean "that federal personnel would inevitably be approving the budgets of local hospitals, setting free schedules for local doctors, and taking other steps which could easily lead to the complete federal domination of all of American medicine."

"That is an enormous risk—and there is no need for us to take it," he said. "There is a better way—a more practical, more effective, less expensive and less dangerous way—to reform and renew our nation's health system."

Nixon included no overall cost estimate with his message. But the cost of individual items mentioned totaled $2.8 billion. This compares to cost estimates for the sweeping Democratic nationalization plans that range upwards from $50 billion a year.

The President placed heavy stress on requiring that all insurance programs, federal and private, allow recipients to enroll in so-called health maintenance organizations.

Such medical groups offer enrollees comprehensive care ranging from prevention through hospitalization for a fixed annual premium.

The President budgeted $45 million as planning and start-up money for a nationwide network of the maintenance organizations. A handful of these now exist, ranging from the health insurance plans in New York City to the Kaiser Permanent Foundation in California.

Heart Fund

Usual warning signs of heart attack include:

Prolonged, oppressive pain or unusual discomfort in the center of the chest, behind the breastbone.

Pain may radiate to shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.

The pain or discomfort is often accompanied by sweating, nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.

These warnings call for immediate action. Call your physician and carefully describe the symptoms. If the doctor is not available, get the patient to a hospital emergency room at once.

The symptoms may ease up, but then return. The Heart Assn. urges quick action when the first warning signs appear.

Knowing the facts of heart attack and acting promptly may save a life.

Women Injured In 1-Car Mishap

Two women were injured in a one-car accident at 12:10 a.m. Thursday on Route 56 just south of Hiller Road No. 1.

Betty E. Reid, 27, of S. Bloomingville suffered contusions of the knee and a passenger, Reba Fetherolf, 30, of Laurelville, contusions of the forehead in the mishap. Both were referred to the doctor for treatment.

According to the report of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff John Bost, the Reid auto was skidded on icy patch and went through the guard rail.

Cleveland

an afternoon working in bipartisan harmony, a condition not likely to survive the 109th General Assembly session.

Two bills introduced into the upper chamber, if adopted, would bring significant changes to existing state agencies.

Sens. Oliver Ocasak, D - 27 Akron, and William Taft, R-26 Cleveland, jointly sponsored a measure to make statutory the function and composition of the state controlling board, watchdog of state spending.

The board is now created anew every two years as part of the state's appropriation bill, and is made up of a governor's representative, the chairmen of the House and Senate finance committees, and a Republican and a Democrat from each house of the assembly.

Under the Ocasak-Taft bill the board would be comprised of three members of each house—two of the three representing the majority party—and the state director of finance.

Another reorganizational bill would replace the present 24-member state board of education with a nine-member board appointed by the governor.

Under present law, the board members are elected from each of Ohio's 24 Congressional districts. Remuneration to members covers only the expenses of membership duties.

Under the proposal, sponsored by Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, members of the board would serve for a three-year term at a salary of $5,000 a year.

The Senate by unanimous voice vote also approved six Gilligan cabinet appointments, scotching rumors that open hearings would be held for each.

Approved were: Gene Abercrombie, Cincinnati, director of agriculture; Ronald J. Coffey, Cleveland, director of commerce; Richard E. Guggenheim, Cincinnati, director of liquor control; Harold A. Hovey, Columbus, director of finance; J. Phillip Riehl, Youngstown, director of highways; and William B. Nye, Akron, director of the department of natural resources.

Jury's Verdict Finds Tatman Not Guilty

Twelve signatures appeared on the verdict finding Arthur B. Tatman innocent of theft of a stereo tape player and tapes. Jurors were handed the case shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday following a day and a half of evidence prepared by Prosecutor Roy Huffer and Tatman's attorney, Kenny Robbins.

Testimony was presented by Ronald Bayless, Chillicothe, who owned the tape unit which has not been recovered. Ronald Harrison and Linda Savage, employees of Porter Laundry, Diana Strous, Tatman's girlfriend at the time, also provided evidence in the case.

The jury was in deliberation for two and one half hours before returning to the courtroom with a request that the five elements of the crime of grand larceny be repeated. Retiring again to the jury room, they returned with the verdict at 5:10 p.m.

Tatman has been jailed since his arrest last September on the charge. He was denied release under bond since he had violated the rules of his probation for a previous incident of forcing a vending machine money box. Tatman was returned to the county jail following the trial Wednesday and was not released today since Judge William Ammer is away on business.

Members of the jury were Owen B. Carpenter, Gwendolyn Cuman, Emmitt F. Morgan, Peter M. Thomas, Carl W. Tracy, Marjorie A. Smith, Delores C. Bowers, Carl D. Bennett, Leona M. DeLong, William K. Dixon, Freda N. Collins, George W. Fowler.

Go-Go Girls Serve Navy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A band played rock music, seven go-go girls danced on tables and others modeled fashions while sailors dined on roast beef, Waldorf salad and pizza.

That, say most of the 10,000 sailors at Miramar Naval Air Station, makes their base the most "with it" in the new Navy.

"Don't ask me what I had for lunch," a wide-eyed lad of 19 said Wednesday. "What with one go-go girl on my right and this model smiling at me on my left, I just couldn't concentrate on food."

Occasional go-go luncheons, which also feature soul food, are the latest innovations of Capt. Alfred W. Chandler Jr., skipper of the 15,000-acre base for Pacific Fleet fighter squadrons.

Wholesale Price Hike Adds Woe To Economic Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration already weighing a get-tough policy to curb inflation, has new evidence gentle persuasion has failed to change the direction of most economic indicators.

The latest problem was in the wholesale price index, which jumped seven-tenths of one percent in January, as reported Wednesday, biggest monthly increase in a year. That's sometimes an indication of the consumer price trend which last year rose 5.5 per cent.

More uneasiness was reflected in another Wednesday report showing competition between banks and savings and loan associations is bolstering interest rates on savings. This, too, is an area in which the administration hopes for a shift to stabilize the economy.

Families tucked away 7 per cent of their disposable income last year and experts in the field say passbook interest rates should hold constant at 4½ to 5 per cent in the months ahead.

"I don't think the ceilings are going to come down," said Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. "We're not as a board considering any such move at this time."

Nixon's standard response to bad fiscal news until lately has been to predict his expansionary policies plus voluntary anti-inflation moves by labor and industry would bring the economy into line.

But in the last few days he has been changing his tune and pointing toward possible direct government intervention.

At a news conference Wednesday the President again said "there will be action" if the government fails to get a voluntary pledge from the construction industry next week to hold down prices and wages.

"The construction industry is a sick industry, not because of the quality of work but because of too rich a diet," Nixon said. "It is essential that the federal government use the power it can to bring about reasonable settlements and price stability."

In a less forceful but still direct move to spark the housing market, the government Wednesday lowered the maximum allowable interest rate to 7 per cent on mortgages it backs through the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. That reduces the rate to 1968 levels, after a high last year of 8½ per cent.

Another indication of economic discomfort Wednesday was some administration confusion over the Gross National Product.

The President is counting on a spectacular 9-per cent rise in the Gross National Product this year to revive the economy and hold his fiscal 1971-72 federal deficit to about $30 billion.

Graphic Picture Of Quakes Drawn By Geology Experts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists say a mountain range lurched three feet upward and three feet sideways last week, cracking the earth and causing the devastating earthquake that rocked Southern California.

The movement of the San Gabriel Mountains can be likened to tilting a layer cake 60 degrees then pushing the top layer up and to the side, breaking the icing.

The mountains ring the northeast edge of the San Fernando Valley where the tremors Feb. 9 shook down buildings and bridges, killed 64 persons and caused damage in the millions of dollars.

Geologists, seismologists and earthquake engineers from universities and state and federal agencies working with an unprecedented amount of data from the quake paint this picture:

The focus, or center, was 10 miles deep in the earth beneath brush-covered Soledad Canyon, running east-west in the San Gabriels. The canyon is about 10 miles north of Sylmar, the San Fernando Valley community where earth motion was the greatest.

The tremors in the Los Angeles suburb shook down a 45-year-old Veterans Administration hospital, killing 45, destroyed a new $23.5-million hospital and extensively damaged streets, homes and utility systems.

The shaking began when a hunk of the earth's crust, similar to the upper layer of the cake, slipped along a fault, or crack, that began 10 miles deep and ran upward and southward, reaching the surface southeast of Sylmar. The slippage caused the San Gabriel Mountains to move upward and southward, along the fault.

This thrusting movement broke the earth's surface along an east-west line several miles southeast of Sylmar. Seismologists found evidence of the breakage and movement in gaping cracks in the ground and displacement of the neat rows of trees in an orange grove.

The surface breakage, the scientists said, explains why the Sylmar area was subjected to such intense shaking, although the quake epicenter was 10 miles away in Soledad Canyon.

Most earthquakes result when the earth's crust moves horizontally along vertical faults, concentrating damage in the area around the epicenter.

governors, the mayors, the county officials, an overwhelming majority of them are for revenue sharing."

He rejected a suggestion he use his influence to overcome apparent insurer objections to mediator Gunnar V. Jarring's latest peace proposal for the Middle East. He said Israel and the United Arab Republic have been "more forthcoming than we expected" and a "live-and-let-live" relationship might develop.

The President spoke confidently of the U.S.-supported drive in southern Laos by South Vietnamese forces. While resistance on the road to Seneone has been severe, he said, three supply trails leading toward South Vietnam were cut and the operation has gone according to plan.

By coupling this report with a bombing warning, the President appeared to notify Hanoi that a new push across the DMZ could find North Vietnam the target of full-scale American bombing.

"I think the very fact that I intend to take strong action to deal with that incursion means that they are not going to take it," Nixon said.

In any event, the President said, the Laotian operation had his approval although it is mostly in South Vietnamese hands.

Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally asked the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday to boost the federal debt limit by $40 billion—biggest single increase since World War II—to a new high of $435 billion.

Connally said that should keep the treasury's red-ink ledgers within bounds through June 30, 1972. "We'll be back here before the 1972 election, even if you approve the whole rise," he added.

6 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cuyahoga, Greene, Lucas Franklin and Butler County residents are counted among the latest traffic accident victims in the state. Some were killed when their cars skidded on icy patches of highway.

The dead: TOLEDO — Richard Scott, 36, of Maumee, died early Thursday in Toledo Hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday night when his automobile skidded on Toledo's West Side and struck a utility pole.

CLEVELAND — Felicia Latino, 74, of suburban Independence, died Wednesday night in a minor traffic collision. Authorities said the victim had a heart condition. The coroner will rule in the death.

XENIA — Scott Stevens, six-month-old son of Mrs. Sandra Stevens of Jamestown, was killed Wednesday when a car driven by his mother collided with another automobile on U.S. 35 east of Xenia in Greene County.

BUTLER — James Marcum, 46, of Hamilton was killed early Thursday when his auto hit a tree on Jacksonburg Road north of Ohio 127.

COLUMBUS — Mrs. Patricia Burke, 22, was injured fatally Thursday morning in a collision involving three automobiles on 17th Avenue.

DEFIANCE — Dona Bender, 18, of near Defiance, was killed early Thursday when her automobile collided with a steel truck about three miles west of Napoleon on Ohio 24. The truck driver, Don Bauer, 30, of New London, suffered minor injuries in the crash.

Columbus Men Bound To Jury

Terry Lee Richardson, 22, and Henry Nott, 29, both of Columbus, were bound to the Grand Jury under $50,000 bond each by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

The two have been charged by Circleville Police with breaking into the home of Dr. Robert Smith, 918 Circle Drive on Sunday evening.

Michael D. Hale, Wadsworth, was fined $150 and costs for driving while intoxicated and $50 and costs for using profane language to the arresting officer. In addition Judge Lamb sentenced Hale to three days in the county jail and ordered his driving rights suspended for six months.

William M. Hoffman, 23, 365 Edwards Road, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

James Sexton, 28, Laurelville, forfeited a $34 bond for operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Ashville Clubs Plan Industry Reception

Ashville Business Men's Club and Community Club will host a reception Sunday in honor of the village's new industry, Columbus Industries, Inc.

The reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at the First English Lutheran Church, Long St. in Ashville.

Columbus Industries will have an exhibit of the products it manufactures. The reception is open to the public.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Fanciful and factual, books about animals are featured this week. First is "Bobo's Dream" by Martha Alexander, another of those charming story books without words. Bobo is a dachshund whose dream of heroism is a delightful flight of fancy. He towers over little boys and rescues his master's football, while his eyes are closed, of course.

Brian Wildsmith, the man with the multicolored paintbrush, has again put his shimmering hues in a children's book. "The Miller, the Boy and the Donkey" is not much of a story. But who cares? Each page is a charming work of art and can enchant the beholder.

In his usual zany fashion, Bill Peet has another sure winner on his hands with "Whingdingdilly." Though not so long and involved as Gelsel's Dr. Seuss books, Peet's have that same illogical charm. The Whingdingdilly is a dilly of an animal—when he isn't a dog!

Nathaniel Benchley had his tongue in cheek when he wrote "The Flying Lesson of Gerald Pelican." Boys and girls may enjoy hearing about how Gerald escaped the giant barracuda. But grownups will know he, Benchley, was talking about the generation gap. They'll relish the ending, in which age and experience triumph.

Who ever heard of a mouse on a bicycle? Beverly Cleary, that's who. "Runaway Ralph" is a daredevil. He has appeared in other Cleary Books, but never in such an appealing way. While he is beguiling his junior readers, he is telling them something important about running away.

One of the most baffling of nature's unsolved mysteries is

Kingston News Report

Mrs. Russell Brooks visited her uncle, Mr. Durbin Allen in Berger Hospital on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jackson were Sunday afternoon guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lunsford and family at their home in Chillicothe.

Study Group 4 of Ross County Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sunderland Tuesday night. The business session was directed by Mr. Fred Dean and the discussion theme was, "How Can We Lick The Littering Problem?" with program chairman, E. V. Graves leading the discussion. They brought out the cost of littering in all aspects and the advantages and disadvantages of landfills versus incinerators. It was suggested that Mr. L. E. Hill ask his 4-H group to participate in the state-wide clean-up week, April 12-17. They also suggested that the schools compete in a slogan contest in which awards will be given in elementary grades as well as in a category for adults.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shaw of South Bloomingville were Sunday afternoon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Canter.

Mrs. W. R. Sunderland is a patient in Berger Hospital where she is receiving medical attention following a fall in her home recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bacus and family have moved from Radcliff into their new home in the Nixon Trailer Court.

Mr. Leslie Garrett of Circleville was a dinner guest of Mrs. Chester Minor, Sunday.

Miss Ruth Ann Brooks of Columbus spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Russell Brooks. They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burgoon, Paula, Brenda and Mrs. Ann Burgoon.

Next regular meeting of the Swimming Pool Committee will be on Monday night, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church.

Penn Central Insurance Policy May Be Ended

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —
Lloyd's of London, which issued a $10 million insurance policy to the Penn Central Transportation
Co. to protect its officers from liability for improper conduct in office, is seeking to rescind the policy, saying it was issued on the basis of misleading statements.

A suit filed Tuesday in U.S.
District Court here by Lloyd's and 16 underwriting companies claimed statements by Penn Central officials falsely denied knowledge of acts, errors or omissions that might afford grounds for future claims.

Lloyd's proposed to return the $305,660 in premiums paid for the insurance.

Pay Taxes Or Be Jailed, Court Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday ruled that a person can be jailed for failing to pay a city income tax.

The court said Paul DeGolyer of Cincinnati was guilty of fraud for failing to pay the tax in 1966. The Ohio Constitution, the court noted, protects persons from being jailed for debts except when the debts arise from fraud.

In the same opinion, the court said Cincinnati's municipal income tax was constitutional.

In other action the court reversed two lower court decisions against Arthur Joseph III, sentenced in Cincinnati to a reformatory and fined $2,500 for narcotics possession.

The Supreme Court said the search warrant Cincinnati police used to break into Joseph's third floor apartment was void because there was no supporting affidavits showing probable cause that he was violating a law. It said U. S. Supreme Court decisions require the supporting affidavits in such cases.

It also said Cincinnati police gave no information to the judge who issued the warrant that would satisfy the probable cause test.

Cool Reception

It is an unfortunate fact of public life that many persons are convinced high officials of government are in the game to enrich their own coffers. That is infrequently the case, but an occasional scandal is enough to blanket the entire area of public service with the taint of suspicion.

This is one of the reasons every year a group of senators introduces legislation which would require every major public official to file annual reports declaring his income from whatever source, his investments and assets and his land and other real estate dealings.

The assumption is that if all the financial dealings of a judge, a congressman or a cabinet member were available for public scrutiny, there could be no question of the proprieties of any of his transactions while in office.

It might work that way and it might not. A number of top officials now do file such reports voluntarily, but how many persons take the trouble to look into them? And if such reports were required by law, who would audit them to be sure they were complete?

There is also the question of privacy. Should a man be expected, upon stepping into public life, to bare all his personal circumstances for the world to see? It is this question, probably more than any other, which makes it unlikely that the annual move by some dozen senators for a full and complete accounting will receive greater acceptance by those it would govern than it has in the past.

IN DOLLARS AND CENTS, Lord Fiske, Britain's Decimal Currency Board chairman who masterminded the switch from pounds-shillings-pence, makes a purchase in a London department store and pronounces the switchover a success. But clerks are finding customers asking what prices are "in real money."

There still are plenty of folks alive who remember the day Prohibition—that imbecilic and ill-fated Eighteenth Amendment—went into effect, but many of them would like to pretend it never happened. The date was January 16, 1920—and as the dread hour approached, heart-broken tipplers mourned in various fashions. At Reisenwiler's, on Columbus Circle, there was a funeral ball. At Maxim's, the waiters were dressed as pallbearers. At bars the country over, drinks were on the house—and already planning their bootlegging sorties were such future notables as Al Capone, Owney Madden, Legs Diamond, and Dutch Schultz, along with two clowns who were destined to turn the whole disastrous adventure into a grisly joke: Prohibition enforcement agents Icky Einstein and Moe Smith.

That night, William Fallon, famed trial lawyer, made an accurate forecast at the Hotel Astor's Hunt Room: "There will always be booze in this country one way or another."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

With so many different kinds of treatment recommended to me by my friends, I don't know where to turn for help.

My problem is my state of mind. I worry too much about everything. I can't make any decisions for myself or for my family. I'm always sure that I will be wrong.

I know I need treatment. Where can I find it?

Mrs. L. S., R. I. Dear Mrs. S.: The fact that you recognize a need for psychological help and guidance is a great step forward in attaining it.

Unlike you, most people either deny that a problem exists or cover it up so completely that it is never brought out into the open for solution.

In this way, they are deprived of the advantage of the emotional support they need.

When people do pick up courage enough to talk about their problems, it comes as a surprise to them to find they are not alone and that many of their friends may have needed professional guidance, too.

At this point confusion may occur. All your friends will insist that their "school of psychotherapy" is the only worthwhile one.

It is nice to know that people have that kind of faith and trust in their psychotherapist. For on this relationship depends the maximum benefits that can be derived.

Friends, however, cannot make the choice for you. This can be done only by your own doctor who knows you and your problems. He can find the ideal therapist for you.

The choice may be a psychiatrist who is a highly trained specialist in addition to being an M.D. Another possibility may be a psychologist who, with a Ph.D., has had excellent training and recognition in the science of psychotherapy.

Unfortunately, far too many people with inadequate training simply set themselves up, without a license, and undertake the delicate task of treating emotional problems.

Your doctor can keep you from falling into such a trap. Your fears and your inability to make a decision are not unusual. Unfortunately, these difficulties probably have existed for a long time, and only recently have bothered you enough to seek help.

A word of advice: Do not be too impatient and expect that a few visits with a therapist

Greenery

By JEFFERY HART

With no little solemnity Massachusetts journalists have spread the word that Senator Edward Kennedy has been reading Charles Reich's The Greening of America—the point being that Ted at last is buckling down and preparing himself to face the profound matters with which he will be concerned in the months and years ahead. In a way it is appropriate for our national leaders to read Reich's book, not because it is a good book or a profound one, but because despite its intellectual shoddiness it clearly has touched some genuine emotion in the reading public. When a bad book causes a widespread flurry of interest, the question has to be why.

As everyone knows, Charles Reich is a professor at the Yale Law School who has been struck to his core by the spirit of Kiddycul. Even that paradox is quaint. After all those exams and high grades and endless case studies, Reich, an obvious overachiever, has been undone by bell-bottoms and beads. The kids, he thinks, possess a New Consciousness and will lead us to the promised land of love, equality, peace, poetry and so forth.

Another book that is causing a great stir, Lewis Mumford's The Pentagon of Power, delivers exactly the same message, though it is much more pretentious intellectually. Sections of it have appeared in The New Yorker, it is a Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and it is bound to have a large impact.

The Pentagon of Power is a kind of summa of fashionable clichés. Mumford's villains are science, technology, rational analysis, pollution, capitalism, Western culture since the seventeenth century, the computer, the Military Industrial Complex, the Rand Corporation, the universities.

According to Mumford, Western culture since the renaissance has been on a disaster course. Somehow the Ptolemaic model of the universe was morally superior to the heliocentric model of Galileo.

The originators of modern science were a poisonous lot, emptying life of all savor and feeling. And Mumford seeks to draw a straight line from Bacon and Descartes through the Robber Barons to his own catalogue of hates.

How are we to be rescued from the history of the last three hundred years? You guessed it! By Ecology, and by the Kids—by a conversion to, in fact, Reich's Consciousness III, to "man's subjective impulses and fantasies," "floating imagery," "bodily impulses," and "spontaneous intangibles."

The interesting thing is that so vast a market exists for this sort of thing, a veritable sauna bath of intellectual hot air. The case could plausibly be made, I think, that we have been on the whole too caught up in "effective behavior," too much preoccupied with organization and efficiency, and certainly have attended too little to the contemplative, the religious, the metaphysical—to deep human impulses which are very much a part of the Western tradition. But civilization is memory, and the West is really, in T.S. Eliot's phrase, a tradition of thought and feeling "from Homer through the present."

If only the eager readers of Mumford and Reich would turn to a genuinely civilized treatment of the claims of action and contemplation, of effectiveness and pleasure, to the seventeenth-century poet, Andrew Marvell, who honored the valid claims of both—and who, indeed, employed as a central symbol the word green. His great lyric, The Garden, expresses and celebrates the pleasures of contemplation, where the mind enters into union with nature, "Annihilating all that's made To a green thought in a green shade." But in his Ode on Oliver Cromwell, Marvell grasped firmly the requirements of the world of politics and power, the need for order, the necessity at times for force.

If the fans of Reich and Mumford recalled their Andrew Marvell—civilization is, indeed, memory—they would not now be so enthusiastic about these two sentimentalists.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Their impact has been very small to date, but robots nevertheless have quietly taken their positions along assembly lines during the past few years, doing the same work—and sometimes doing it better—as the men they replaced.

The implications could be large at some future year, depending upon how quick is their acceptance, but so far they have created little stir where you might expect it most, in the labor unions.

One reason is that most of the jobs now being handled by these machines, which seek to duplicate human arm and even finger movement, are hot, dirty, exhausting, tedious, dangerous and otherwise undesirable.

The big three of automaking—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—have purchased robots for assembly line jobs and current thinking is that after a period of testing they'll play a growing role in automobile production.

General Motors last year purchased more than 60 one-arm, hydraulic and pneumatically operated robots for assembly line chores at Lordstown and Norwood, Ohio.

Norman Schaffer, vice chairman of Condec Corp., which with Pullman Inc. owns Unimation, Inc., a robot-maker, believes the future is assured, even though his company hasn't yet made a profit on robots.

Labor attitudes are changing, he believes, as unions see machines displacing workers into more rewarding jobs rather than putting them out on the street.

Money also is a big factor. Schaffer claims that his company's one-arm robot is able to do the work of two men on certain jobs, and do it better, with less downtime—and, of course, with no fringe benefits or pensions.

Assuming an automotive worker's salary and fringes amount to $9,000 a year, the total cost of two men on one shift is $18,000 a year, meaning that the robot, which costs $25,000 could pay for itself in less than two years.

Moreover, Schaffer says, "it won't suffer from fatigue, will not need rest periods or coffee-breaks, and while it never will replace an artisan it will do a job exactly as taught. A human will do it either a little better or worse."

Unimation and AMF Industries are the two largest manufacturers of one-arm industrial robots, but so small is the industry today that it is doubtful if more than 500 of their machines are now in use.

In Japan, which fears a labor shortage before the turn of the century, there is considerably greater interest. At least 60 companies there are involved in manufacture or research.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a plumber gets tired of hearing:

"What took you so long to get here, Joe? Did your chauffeur have to stop and fix a flat tire?"

"All you did was jiggle the handle on the toilet, and it started working again. You expect me to pay you $30 for that?"

"I remember when all you had for lunch, Joe, was a liver-wurst sandwich and a raw onion. Now I suppose you have your lunches catered on the job."

"In the old days he used to do all the work himself. Now each of his three helpers has a helper."

"What took you so long, Joe? Did you stop off for a round of golf or two?"

Ford Earnings Show Decline

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. reports record earnings for the last quarter of 1970 of $151 million, but says its 12 month earnings were down $31 million.

The decrease in net income was explained Tuesday as due to sharply rising labor and material costs. The nation's second largest automotive manufacturer said 1970 sales were a record $15 billion.

Earlier, both General Motors and Chrysler also reported lower 1970 earnings.

The big three of automaking—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—have purchased robots for assembly line jobs and current thinking is that after a period of testing they'll play a growing role in automobile production.

General Motors last year purchased more than 60 one-arm, hydraulic and pneumatically operated robots for assembly line chores at Lordstown and Norwood, Ohio.

Norman Schaffer, vice chairman of Condec Corp., which with Pullman Inc. owns Unimation, Inc., a robot-maker, believes the future is assured, even though his company hasn't yet made a profit on robots.

Labor attitudes are changing, he believes, as unions see machines displacing workers into more rewarding jobs rather than putting them out on the street.

Money also is a big factor. Schaffer claims that his company's one-arm robot is able to do the work of two men on certain jobs, and do it better, with less downtime—and, of course, with no fringe benefits or pensions.

Assuming an automotive worker's salary and fringes amount to $9,000 a year, the total cost of two men on one shift is $18,000 a year, meaning that the robot, which costs $25,000 could pay for itself in less than two years.

Moreover, Schaffer says, "it won't suffer from fatigue, it won't need rest periods or coffee-breaks, and while it never will replace an artisan it will do a job exactly as taught. A human will do it either a little better or worse."

Unimation and AMF Industries are the two largest manufacturers of one-arm industrial robots, but so small is the industry today that it is doubtful if more than 500 of their machines are now in use.

In Japan, which fears a labor shortage before the turn of the century, there is considerably greater interest. At least 60 companies there are involved in manufacture or research.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a plumber gets tired of hearing:

"What took you so long to get here, Joe? Did your chauffeur have to stop and fix a flat tire?"

"All you did was jiggle the handle on the toilet, and it started working again. You expect me to pay you $30 for that?"

"I remember when all you had for lunch, Joe, was a liver-wurst sandwich and a raw onion. Now I suppose you have your lunches catered on the job."

"In the old days he used to do all the work himself. Now each of his three helpers has a helper."

"What took you so long, Joe? Did you stop off for a round of golf or two?"

Ford Earnings Show Decline

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. reports record earnings for the last quarter of 1970 of $151 million, but says its 12 month earnings were down $31 million.

The decrease in net income was explained Tuesday as due to sharply rising labor and material costs. The nation's second largest automotive manufacturer said 1970 sales were a record $15 billion.

Earlier, both General Motors and Chrysler also reported lower 1970 earnings.

Annual Report Of Circleville Municipal Court Completed

Circleville Municipal Court collected $162,256.61 from fines, costs and bond forfeitures in criminal and civil cases during 1970 according to the annual report compiled by Naomi Houghton, clerk.

The city of Circleville received $32,149.76 (45 per cent of Ohio State Highway Patrol fines and bond forfeitures) $6,162.75 (fines and bond forfeitures under city ordinance) and $46,241.52 (court costs from all other types of criminal cases) for a total of $84,554.03.

With the passage of the new codification ordinance in December of 1970, the city will now receive more money from fines and bond forfeitures of cases prosecuted under city ordinance.

Pickaway County received a total of $39,884.84, including $20,185.60 from uniform traffic fines and bond forfeitures, $7,133.39 from 10 per cent of highway patrol fines and bond forfeitures, $1,289.60 in sheriff fees and $11,276.25 from regular state statute fines and bond forfeitures.

The Pickaway County Law Library received $4,000. The treasurer of the state received $32,149.75 which is 45 per cent of fines and bond forfeitures in highway patrol cases. Other disbursements by the court included: Division of Conservation, $915; Department of liquor control, $47.50; other sheriffs, $4.62; mileage and witness fees, $129.70; laboratory fees for blood alcohol analysis, $90.50; clerk of courts, $7.50; Ohio Bureau of Employment, $50; refund of fines and costs, $34.

There were 5,939 criminal cases filed during the month and 5,809 concluded. In addition 186 cases were filed in civil division of the court and 128 were concluded. There were 511 small claims filed and 507 concluded. The court suspended a total of $13,110.35 in fines and costs in 363 cases.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb performed 24 marriages during the year. The court was in session 277 days.

Since the inception of the court in 1954, a total of $1,655,026.27 has been collected from criminal and civil cases in fines, costs and bond forfeitures.

U.S. Strength Need Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says it is essential the United States maintain an adequate armed force until Russia agrees to an arms control limitation.

"We must maintain that force not because we want war but because, in the truest sense of the word, in peacetime the armed forces of the United States all over this world are truly peace forces," he told leaders of the American Legion Tuesday night.

Nixon received the organization's 1969 distinguished service medal at a dinner honoring members of Congress.

The President thanked the Legion for backing his White House policies, especially his decisions on the Southeast Asian war, and called on it to "continue to support whoever is the president of the United States, whatever his party . . ."

The President was to have received the Legion award at its annual convention last March in Portland, Ore. He received the medal at the Legion's annual Washington conference because he was unable to attend the convention.

VACATIONERS — Miss Pauline E. Roese (right) of Ashville returned home Sunday from a 14-day Caribbean cruise as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hutton, Buffalo, N. Y., also pictured. Mrs. Hutton is the sister of Mrs. Clayton T. Vaughan, Northridge Rd. Cruise passengers sailed from New York Harbor Jan. 30 aboard the Greek Line Flagship, "Queen Anna Maria". Six ports visited were Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Freeport in the Bahamas, Kingston, Jamaica, W. I., Aruba in the Netherlands Antilles, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Miss Roese reported a highlight of the cruise was an unscheduled visit aboard the "Queen Elizabeth", harbored at Freeport at the time the Queen Anna Maria was in port. Queen Anna Maria passengers also saw the U. S. Medical ship, Project Hope, stationed in the West Indies harbor of Kingston.

Before pouring syrup into a measuring cup, oil the inside of it. Syrup pours from the cup more easily, leaving little behind.

Refreshments in the valentine theme were served by Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Donald Horney, Mrs. Clark McCafferty and Mrs. Lloyd Neff. Mrs. Marie Hott was welcomed as a new member.

The March meeting will be March 1st in the church basement with Mrs. Otha Lewis, Mrs. Laura Henry, Miss Saralie Grabill and Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers as hostesses. Pickaway County Extension Agent, George Harnick, will be guest speaker and show slides on birds and their habitats.

MISS D. CAROL GREENE

Emmett Chapel WSCS Addressed By President

Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church met recently in the fellowship room of the church. Answering roll call by naming their favorite candy were 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe.

Mrs. Gordon Hannigan, vice president, presided at the business session. For devotions, Mrs. Ted Thomas read from the book of Genesis and told how man was made in God's image. She also read "God's Will For You and Me" and closed with prayer.

Mrs. Hannigan said that the Methodist Men will meet March 4. Serving dinner for them will be Mrs. Robert Bauer, Mrs. Foster Jenne, Mrs. Robert Lloyd and Mrs. Donald Myers.

"Happy Birthday" was sung honoring the birthday of Mrs. Foster Jenne. Mrs. David Dunn reported that several women received letters from servicemen in Vietnam thanking the society for the ditty bags they received at Christmas. She urged members to visit patients at Pickaway Manor.

The society will serve another stock sale dinner Feb. 24th at Bowling Stock Yards.

Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe, district president of WSCS, used for her program topic "What's New?" She said that we all have a place to fill whether the group is large or small. She talked about the work of Southside Settlement House and how important it is to continue to help them in whatever way possible. She told everyone to visit the house. She told of different programs that will be conducted and of all the resource material that is important to the society.

Mrs. Gordon Hannigan also presented a program. She read "This Thing Called Love." Her main subject was that when a person receives Jesus Christ as their personal Savior, they receive God's love to shine through them and God's love never fails. She also read "God Of Love." Mrs. Marvin Dunn concluded the program by singing "The Lord's Prayer."

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Clyde Cook Sr. and Mrs. Clyde Cook Jr. The tables were decorated in the Valentine Day theme. The two centerpieces of white candles with green holly and red roses trimmed with cupid and hearts were awarded to Mrs. Harry Wright and Mrs. Robert Valentine. Each person received a valentine made of red felt with pins and needles inside. A dessert course was served by the hostesses.

Five Points WCTU Schedules Tea

Members of Five Points Women's Christian Temperance Union will sponsor a Frances Willard Tea 1:15 p.m. Tuesday at Monroe School.

Rev. Lillian Wright, guest speaker, will talk on "Temperance." Children of the school have written essays on "Total Abstinence For Survival." These will be judged and prizes awarded the winners.

Drip pans under burners in ranges can become filled with the remains or spills of cooking. Soak pans in detergent suds and wipe after each meal.

VACATIONERS — Miss Pauline E. Roese (right) of Ashville returned home Sunday from a 14-day Caribbean cruise as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hutton, Buffalo, N. Y., also pictured. Mrs. Hutton is the sister of Mrs. Clayton T. Vaughan, Northridge Rd. Cruise passengers sailed from New York Harbor Jan. 30 aboard the Greek Line Flagship, "Queen Anna Maria". Six ports visited were Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Freeport in the Bahamas, Kingston, Jamaica, W. I., Aruba in the Netherlands Antilles, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Miss Roese reported a highlight of the cruise was an unscheduled visit aboard the "Queen Elizabeth", harbored at Freeport at the time the Queen Anna Maria was in port. Queen Anna Maria passengers also saw the U. S. Medical ship, Project Hope, stationed in the West Indies harbor of Kingston.

Garden Club Has Program On Bird Homes, Feeders

Monrovia Garden Club members answered roll call by telling the name of an unusual bird that had visited their yard this year. The Monday evening meeting, held in the Five Points United Methodist Church, was attended by 19 members.

Mrs. Joe Sheets, president, opened the meeting by leading in repeating "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Clyde Michel gave devotionals reading a part of the first chapter of Genesis as her Scripture. She also presented a reading on nature and concluded with "The Music Of Nature, The Song Of A Bird."

detailed report of the last therapy program held at Orient State School and praised the patients for their interest in the programs.

The next therapy program at Orient is scheduled for March 10th. The project will be a shamrock tree with Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Ann Thomas as chairmen.

Mrs. Sheets told of her visit to the Rainbow Garden Club in Jackson. She was accompanied by Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Russell Beckett.

Mrs. Allen Foilrod introduced the guest speaker, K. B. Towler, an instructor, who talked about and demonstrated homes and feeders for birds. He told of different kinds of material to use in construction, the sizes and best places to locate them. He discussed the variety of birds in Ohio and their habits. Each member was urged to construct a bird home or feeder and display it at the next meeting.

Refreshments in the valentine theme were served by Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Donald Horney, Mrs. Clark McCafferty and Mrs. Lloyd Neff. Mrs. Marie Hott was welcomed as a new member.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cinderella of television, the educational network, has been breaking some new ground with its weekly series, "The Great American Dream Machine."

This magazine format show moves from broad comedy to drama, from subtle satire to pungent editorializing simply by shifting scenes.

Frequently, its reach exceeds its grasp, but often it hits home. On Wednesday night, for example, the 90 minutes wound up with an impressive corollary between the early days of slavery and today's enslavement of man by poverty. Earlier in the program there were excerpts from the Rev. Daniel Berrigan's off Broadway play, "Trial of the Catonsville Nine."

This week's edition leaned on the sober side and some of the attempted humor was pretty fuzzy. A tongue-in-cheek assault on sugar-coated cereals included an admonition to children to avoid nutritious breakfasts "because you've nothing to lose but your teeth."

The introduction of freshman U.S. Rep. Louise Day Hicks of Massachusetts consisted of playing the old Chevalier song, "Louise," suggesting some satire was in the offing. Then Mrs. Hicks was permitted to make a speech about school integration, busing and the Communist menace—all very serious.

The program uses sound, color and camera tricks lavishly. It is often irritating in its loudness and repetition, occasionally goes over board and often gets a little arty. But "The Great American Dream Machine" is an ambitious effort to climb out

State Police Deny Crash Conclusions

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A report by West Virginia State Police from investigations into the Nov. 14 Marshall University jetliner disaster makes no conclusions as to the cause of the crash except to say "the pilots believed they were flying at a safe altitude" when they crashed.

Sgt. Fred Donohoe of the Huntington detachment said there "is no way I can draw any conclusions" except "with all the data we have... the pilots believed they were flying at a safe altitude during their approach to Tri-State Airport."

The Southern Airways DC9, carrying the Marshall football team, coaches and supporters, clipped tree tops on a high ridge west of the airport, plowed into a muddy hillside and exploded in flames. All 75 persons aboard were killed.

Donohoe said it is his belief the crew felt the jetliner was flying 200 to 300 feet above its actual altitude.

The Associated Press reported erroneously Wednesday that state police had listed the cause of the crash.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which conducted three days of public hearings in December, is expected to release its report within 60 days.

of some of those tiresome TV formats.

George Schlatter, the creator and producer of "Laugh-In" which broke some commercial TV molds three seasons back, believes that getting away from the tiresome forms—predictable situation comedy, the rigid agendas of the star-dominated weekly variety hour—is vital to the medium.

"I just don't think that television should be a sedative," he said.

"At a time like this, when television has financial problems, the old philosophy just won't work... I think you must constantly find new forms, work with new ideas, find new faces. "Laugh-In," with its furious pace, has had an effect on all variety shows that have followed it. It appears that "The Great American Dream Machine" with its wild and distinctive mix, its sound and fury, inevitably will be reflected in commercial television. Love it or hate it, it is certainly no sedative.

SALT CREEK VALLEY GRANGE

Francis Fruanfelder, master of Salt Creek Valley Grange, conducted the regular business meeting held last night at the Salt Creek School. Following regular business reports of officers, Donna Beougher, CWA Chairman discussed plans for the dinner the organization will serve on February 24 at the Grange building.

Members were also reminded of the annual county grange banquet to be held at the fairgrounds beginning 6:30 p.m. Feb. 27. Serving as director for the evening will be Leora Sayre, Pomona Grange Lecturer. Each grange in the county will cooperate for the evening entertainment at which a local traveler will be featured for the main portion of the evening.

Donald DeLong, captain of the degree team, appointed officers for the up-coming inspection on March 2. The final rehearsal of the team will be held on March 1 at the school.

"Names" was used by Paul Dunkle for the literary program as he presented the material in the absence of the regular lecturer. An unusual happening of the Civil War served as the prelude for the program.

Members took part in contests of writing double names, and a contest of Circleville family names. A list of soap names was revived from the early 1900's, and a list of housekeeping hints was given from Phyllis Diller. Also included in the program was suggestions for naming Jewish babies.

At the next meeting on March 2, the Pickaway County Deputies will be present for the annual inspections with the meeting being open to all grangers in the area to enjoy the degree work and the concluding fellowship.

Open Hearings On Joint Vo-Ed Annexations

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP)—The Senate Education and Health Committee opened hearings late Wednesday on a bill to permit a form of educational annexation at least in regard to joint vocational school districts.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R - 12 Tiffin, would permit any school district in one county adjacent to a joint vocational school district to arrange to become a part of that district.

M. E. Acocks, representing the Port Clinton City Schools, said the bill would permit students in his city system to travel less than 15 miles for vocational training.

Acocks said under the present arrangement, Port Clinton students are eligible to attend a district that is about one hour away by bus.

Acocks called the legislation convenient for many school systems.

Sen. Jakley Collins, R - 18 Ironton, assured the bill's proponents that "we will do everything we can to get this bill out quickly."

A cross the Statehouse, the House Health, Education and Welfare Committee opened hearings on two education bills.

One would allow private citizens to contract with school districts for special transportation services. The other would exempt certain part-time nursery schools from present day-care center regulations.

The committee did recommend for passage a measure that would expand day care subsidies programs to cover the working poor.

A number of committee members, from both parties, voiced misgivings about expanding coverage of a program that is already underfunded, but agreed to pass the bill out of the committee to put it on the House floor for discussion.

Delinquency Charges Filed In Bank Holdup

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) —

Delinquency charges were filed in juvenile court Wednesday against two teen-agers arrested near the Farmers State Bank of New Madison shortly after it was robbed of $5,000.

Barbara Slusher, 15 of Greenville, and Darrel Noggle, 17, of rural Greenville, were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond each. The sheriff's office said a girl armed with a pistol robbed the bank Tuesday and the two teen-agers were held for authorities by a bank officer who pursued the girl.

Court Martial Panel Hears Calley Life Story

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — In the seventh grade Rusty Calley was caught cheating in an examination and had to repeat the grade.

In the ninth grade he argued with a teacher, was suspended for a week and was shuttled off to a private military academy.

In high school, out of a graduating class of 831, Calley was ranked 666. He did so miserably in junior college that he dropped out after the first year to drift into a series of second-rate jobs.

Now, at 27, Rusty Calley is on trial. As William Laws Calley Jr., a first lieutenant in the United States Army, he is accused of being the chief trigger-man in the bloodbath of the tiny Vietnamese village of My Lai.

Soon, at the climax of the trial, Calley will tell his own story. Through a legal necessity much of what he will say was read Wednesday to the six military men who will judge him. A defense lawyer said the statement was a preview of Calley's testimony.

It depicts the young Calley as growing up in harmony with one older and two younger sisters in Miami, Fla.

"During these years," the statement read to a psychiatrist-witness and a jury said, "he was regularly attending school, carrying on an active social life with other young people his age and enjoyed various sports such as football and boating."

"He had many friends but formed few close attachments. He has never experimented with drugs and ascribes moderate social drinking. He was bored with affluent suburban living."

Ironically, Calley tried, after leaving college in the summer of 1963, to enlist in the Army. He was rejected because he was tone deaf.

GORDON'S

Est. 1924 - 474-5631

The senior Calley's business failed and the family moved to North Carolina. His father, a construction equipment salesman, was a diabetic. His mother developed cancer and soon died.

For a time Rusty lived with the family, helping with finances.

Then, while visiting San Francisco, Calley received his draft notice and started driving to Miami. His car broke down in Albuquerque.

Out of funds, he enlisted in the Army on the spot. It was July 16, 1966—exactly 20 months before the day in My Lai.

After basic training Calley was assigned to Ft. Lewis, Wash., and did so well as a clerk-typist he was recommended for Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning.

On Sept. 7, 1967, Calley was graduated as a second lieutenant. He ranked 120th in a class of 136.

With a gold bar on his shoulder, Calley was assigned to Hawaii and Charlie Company, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry in October 1967 and was given a platoon.

December 1967 found Charlie Company in Vietnam, part of the newly organized Americal Division. Calley received more training.

"As part of this training," the statement said, "he was directed to treat all South Vietnamese with great caution since men, women of all ages—including old men and women and small children—have proved to be as dangerous an enemy as the full-grown military-age men."

In an area where 90 per cent of American casualties came from mines and booby traps Calley "felt increasingly frustrated at the difficulty of identifying the enemy."

On March 15, 1968, Capt. Ernest Medina, Calley's company commander, gathered his troops and briefed them.

"Lt. Calley came out of the briefing with the opinion that all enemy encountered during the operation were to be destroyed and that everyone remaining in the area was the enemy," the statement said.

Calley's 1st Platoon was chosen to conduct the sweep.

And then in Wednesday's court statement came the first direct admission by the defendant that he shot the villagers, who were captive and unresisting and mostly women, old men and children:

"Lt. Calley ordered Paul

Meadlo, a soldier in his platoon, to shoot and took part himself in shooting some detained Vietnamese on two occasions—once about the center of the hamlet and once on the eastern edge of it in an irrigation ditch or depression.

"Lt. Calley will testify he believed he was following orders to destroy all living things in the village."

His lawyers give his view: "Lt. Calley states that he did not feel as if he were killing humans, but rather that they were enemy with whom one could not speak or reason."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cinderella of television, the educational network, has been breaking some new ground with its weekly series, "The Great American Dream Machine."

This magazine format show moves from broad comedy to drama, from subtle satire to pungent editorializing simply by shifting scenes.

Frequently, its reach exceeds its grasp, but often it hits home. On Wednesday night, for example, the 90 minutes wound up with an impressive corollary between the early days of slavery and today's enslavement of man by poverty. Earlier in the program there were excerpts from the Rev. Daniel Berrigan's of Broadway play, "Trial of the Catonsville Nine."

This week's edition leaned on the sober side and some of the attempted humor was pretty fuzzy. A tongue-in-cheek assault on sugar-coated cereals included an admonition to children to avoid nutritious breakfasts "because you've nothing to lose but your teeth."

The introduction of freshman U.S. Rep. Louise Day Hicks of Massachusetts consisted of playing the old Chevalier song, "Louise," suggesting some satire was in the offing. Then Mrs. Hicks was permitted to make a speech about school integration, busing and the Communist menace—all very serious.

The program uses sound, color and camera tricks lavishly. It is often irritating in its loudness and repetition, occasionally goes over board and often gets a little arty. But "The Great American Dream Machine" is an ambitious effort to climb out

State Police Deny Crash Conclusions

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A report by West Virginia State Police from investigations into the Nov. 14 Marshall University jetliner disaster makes no conclusions as to the cause of the crash except to say "the pilots believed they were flying at a safe altitude" when they crashed.

Sgt. Fred Donohoe of the Huntington detachment said there "is no way I can draw any conclusions" except "with all the data we have... the pilots believed they were flying at a safe altitude during their approach to Tri-State Airport."

The Southern Airways DC9, carrying the Marshall football team, coaches and supporters, clipped tree tops on a high ridge west of the airport, plowed into a muddy hillside and exploded in flames. All 75 persons aboard were killed.

Donohoe said it is his belief the crew felt the jetliner was flying 200 to 300 feet above its actual altitude.

The Associated Press reported erroneously Wednesday that state police had listed the cause of the crash.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which conducted three days of public hearings in December, is expected to release its report within 60 days.

Permanent Employee Plan Dropped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Republicans have decided not to push for passage of a bill that would have given permanent employment status to almost 4,000 provisional state employees hired by the former Republican administration.

The decision was made in a Republican caucus Tuesday, the Associated Press learned. GOP leaders said they had assurances from Gov. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, that there would be no wholesale firing of state employees.

The provisional employees were hired over the past four years, but were never given Civil Service examinations by the Ohio Department of Personnel. The so-called "tipper" bill that would have made them permanent employees was introduced Jan. 11, the day Gilligan took office.

Rep. Robert E. Levitt R-91 Canton, majority floor leader in the House, was the prime sponsor of the measure.

Another GOP House leader told a newsman the bill, which had hearings in the State Government Committee is not dead.

"We are going to hold this in abeyance to see if what they (Democrats) say is true," he said. He indicated it would be brought up for a vote if there is a rush of firings.

Republicans hold a 54-45 edge in the House and outnumber Democrats 20-13 in the Senate.

With Rev. Wetherell in charge, services at the United Methodist Church Sunday were well attended. Following a special rendition by the choir of "Battle Hymn of the Republic", a dynamic sermon "Some Thoughts of Great Men" was delivered. The topic of the Junior Sermon was "Hot or Cold."

Attendees at the door next Sunday, Feb. 21, will be Mrs. Kathryn Neff and Rhonda, Mrs. Ruth Weber and Sandy will be in charge of the nursery.

The Mary Martha Class held their meeting, combined with a pot-luck supper this Tuesday evening in the Fellowship Hall.

Activities continue at a high rate at the Faith Baptist Church, holding their meetings in the Fire House. Eighty-one were present for last Sunday's a.m. services, with Pastor Gary Holman in charge.

An invitation is extended to all to attend the services — Sunday School — 9:30 a.m.; Worship — 10:30 a.m.; Evening Services at 7:00 p.m.; Bible Study and Prayer Meeting, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

With our patients — Mrs. Lena Wood has been moved to Pickaway Manor on Clark Drive in Circleville.

Mrs. Fern Carfrey who suffered a broken knee-cap in a fall at her home, is convalescing at the home of her son, Everett in Columbus.

Mr. Frank Kauffeld is recovering nicely at his home on Dennis-McCord Rd., as is also Bob Trego at his home here. Both boys are in good spirits following their recent serious illnesses.

Mr. James Sprouse remains in about the same condition as previously reported, but spends only short visits to his store.

Mrs. Frances Neff is in much better condition and is now at home at 2751 Steele Ave.

In a communication received last week from Mrs. Mildred Hicks of Huntsville, Ohio, Route 1, she informs me that she is recovering nicely following recent surgery. She appreciates all the cards, flowers, letters and visits while in the hospital from friends "back home."

We wish all of them a speedy and complete recovery.

QmSN Steven B. Dountz, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dountz of Cyrus St., has been at sea since early October and will return to home waters about Mar. 8. He recently paid a visit to Barcelona, Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Derring and Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Jug) Derring of Coontz Rd. have returned from several days vacation in Acapulco, Mexico and other places of interest in the southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Dountz of Matville Rd., have returned to their home following three weeks of touring Texas, Florida and other points through the south. They report a fine vacation, with mostly good weather all the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Moody (Karen Younkin) of Route 762, are the parents of an 8 - pound daughter born at Doctor's Hospital on Feb. 8. Parents, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Younkin, and great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. William J. Green are all happy.

Mr. Dale F. Blackburn, age 53, of Durrett Rd., was dead on arrival of the emergency squad last Monday night, Feb.

8. Funeral services were held at the Schoedinger-Norris Chapel last Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. with Rev. Wilbur Vorhis officiating. Interment Beckett Cemetery, Commercial Point.

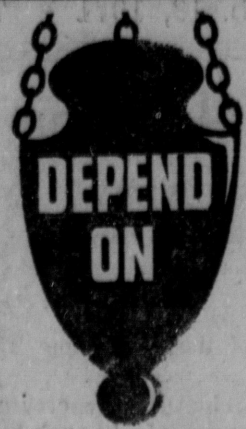

He is survived by wife Gilla; brothers John of Johnstown and Carl of Alexandria; sisters Lilly Blackburn, Florida Blackburn and Gertrude Morgan, all of Columbus.

The community extends condolences to the family.

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Alice Martin of Walker Rd., gathered at her home Sunday in celebration of her 90th anniversary with a basket dinner.

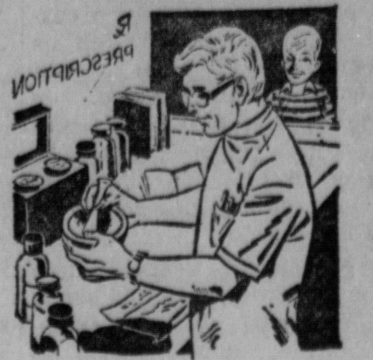

Those attending were her daughter Anna Rathburn, Dale Waliser, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ridgeway, Ruth Sapp, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mehringo all of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gochenour, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Gochenour and son Todd of Grove City; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black and Stephanie of Ashville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little of Lockbourne.

Mrs. Martin thanks every one for cards, gifts and greetings to help make this a very happy occasion.

Permanent Employee Plan Dropped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Republicans have decided not to push for passage of a bill that would have given permanent employment status to almost 4,000 provisional state employees hired by the former Republican administration.

The decision was made in a Republican caucus Tuesday, the Associated Press learned.

GOP leaders said they had assurances from Gov. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, that there would be no wholesale firing of state employees.

The provisional employees were hired over the past four years, but were never given Civil Service examinations by the Ohio Department of Personnel. The so-called "tipper" bill that would have made them permanent employees was introduced Jan. 11, the day Gilligan took office.

Rep. Robert E. Levitt R - 91 Canton, majority floor leader in the House, was the prime sponsor of the measure.

Another GOP House leader told a newsman the bill, which had hearings in the State Government Committee is not dead. "We are going to hold this in abeyance to see if what they (Democrats) say is true," he said. He indicated it would be brought up for a vote if there is a rush of firings.

Republicans hold a 54-45 edge in the House and outnumber Democrats 20-13 in the Senate.

MONSTER'S CLUTCHES — It looks as though PPG Industries' Vance Martin is caught in a monster's grip, but he isn't in danger. The 'tentacles' are flexible metal hoses which move liquid raw materials, used to make polyester resins and rigid polyurethane foams, from rail cars to storage tanks at PPG's Circleville plant. U. S. production of polyester resins has grown to 600 million pounds, while rigid polyurethane foams are manufactured at a 250 million pound annual rate.

Some Cincinnati Policemen Start Beat Walking March 7

CINCINNATI (AP) — On March 7, some Cincinnati policemen will return to the old system of walking beats, instead of patrolling them in cruisers.

The men will be involved in a pilot program in one of the Queen City's seven police districts which covers the downtown section and adjoining areas.

The program will be aimed at recapturing the knowledge and advantages gained by both police and community residents to see if the department should have men walking beats in all the districts. Los Angeles and other U. S. Cities have returned to the beat walking.

The pilot program, officially known as the Community Sector Team Policing Plan, has been hailed by Thomas Garner, chairman of the Cincinnati Human Relations Commission as "probably the most innovative idea the Cincinnati department has come up with in quite a while."

"It will bring the policeman back to the people."

Safety Director Henry Sandman said that the team policing theory is "the most revolutionary concept in the distribution of manpower that's happened in the last 20 years."

Besides the daily meetings with persons in the district, the policemen will convene with them once a month in an open session in which crime and ways to solve it will be discussed.

The district policemen are undergoing a special training course to prepare them for the beat walking. The men already have been briefed by the CHRC on information concerning the district's community leaders, people, probable reactions to certain situations, residents' feeling towards police, and special area problems.

Garner said that during briefings the policemen have been "very much interested in what the department wants. I haven't seen this kind of enthusiasm from policemen in years."

He said he feels that the "new" system will make the average policeman's job easier.

"By knowing the people on an intimate basis, the people will be more inclined to help him get his work done," Garner said. "Not that they'll be informers, but crime won't go undetected."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Hubby's Eyes Not For Wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both in our mid-forties. I have noticed lately that William has taken to thoroughly looking women over from head to toe. I am a bit jealous, somewhat embarrassed and more than a little annoyed when he does this. Also, he's making a fool of himself. Now that William wears bifocal eyeglasses, all that looking up and down has become conspicuous to everyone. I am all thumbs with words, and anything I would say to him would sound silly, so I have said nothing. Have you any suggestions?

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Simply say, "William, dear, your ogling has become most conspicuous than ever since you've started wearing bifocals. If you must look, please be more subtle. You're making a fool of yourself."

DEAR ABBY: When I was a girl, my mother always told me I had bad breath. I grew up being terribly self-conscious about this and started chewing sugarless gum at an early age to insure myself against offending anyone.

It gave me confidence, and I learned how to chew gum inconspicuously. Most of the time I hold it in my mouth for hours at a time without chewing.

My husband does not like for me to chew gum at all. He says I look like a teeny-booper or a gum-cracking suburban housewife without a brain in her head.

He says if I loved him I would give up the gum. I say, I do love him, but if he loved me he would be more tolerant and allow me this one habit. What do you think?

TIGHT JAWS
DEAR TIGHT: Apparently your gum-chewing isn't as inconspicuous as you say it is or your husband wouldn't complain so much. While I have nothing against inconspicuous gum-chewing, there are other breath-fresheners on the market which could provide the same confidence, and eliminate the fuss around.

DEAR ABBY: About the person who has a friend who is a great talker:

My friend for 40 years would put her friend to shame. However, I believe the good Lord put everything on earth for a purpose, so I put my talkative friend to good use. Last Thanksgiving I invited him over to entertain my wife's relatives who are not only champion nonstop talkers themselves, but champion freeloaders in the bargain. My friend took on the whole lot of 'em and his raucous voice was the only one that could be heard above any combination of sounds made by the relatives, including the screams of babies.

Then to top it off, I asked one of the relatives if he'd be good enough to give my friend a lift home 20 blocks on his way home.

Study Clues In Columbus Dual Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Detectives believe Christina Mitchell was still asleep when a man slipped into her apartment and crept up heavily carpeted stairs with a butcher knife taken from the kitchen.

Homicide Lt. Richard Gordon said the 25-year-old housewife apparently was surprised since there was no sign of a struggle.

Mrs. Mitchell's partially clad body was found Tuesday on her bed, gagged with her hands tied. She was stabbed in the chest.

Her 8-month-old son Scott, also stabbed to death, was found in the bathroom.

Police said they had no definite suspects yet.

They expected laboratory reports today on fingerprints recovered from the murder weapon and footprints found outside the apartment.

About 40 detectives questioned residents of the near north side townhouse apartment complex Wednesday and scoured the area for clues.

They reportedly found a set of bloody fingerprints on a police emergency call box about two blocks from the murder scene but it was not known if they were connected with the crime.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed bids will be received by the Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio at the office of said Director until 12:00 noon, March 5, 1971 for furnishing a Police Cruiser for the Police Department of the City of Circleville, Ohio, according to the plans and specifications on file in said Safety Director's office. The lowest and best bid will be determined on the basis of a trade-in allowance for a 1970 Pontiac Police Cruiser now owned by the City and in the possession and use of the Police Department of the City of Circleville, Ohio. Each bid must contain the full name of every person or company interested in the same, and be accompanied by a bond or certified check in the amount of $100.00, to the satisfaction of the Director, as guaranty that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and its performance properly secured. Should any bid be rejected such check will be forthwith returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted such check will be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract. British Cut Arms Outlay

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's government announced Wednesday it plans to spend $153 million less on defense in the next fiscal year than for the year ending March 31.

A white paper said Britain's defense budget for 1971-72 will total $6.1 billion. It said the reduction will be achieved mainly by economies in manpower and administration.

The government said the Soviet Union is pressing ahead with a worldwide power buildup, and Britain will continue to commit its main military effort to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But Britain will also back up her friends in Southeast Asia, the Indian Ocean, the Persian Gulf and the Middle East, "though on a scale appropriate to her resources," the statement said.

The document made no reference to the Heath government's controversial plan to resume the sale of naval weapons to the South African government, a move which Heath contends is necessary because of the growing Soviet naval strength in the Indian Ocean.

Sentence Youth For Killing Man Over $10 Bet

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old East Side Cleveland youth has been sentenced to the Ohio Reformatory in the killing of a man over a $10 bet in a dice game and for shooting at a private policeman who witnessed the killing.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Leo M. Spelacy sentenced Tyrone McDavid to 2 to 40 years Tuesday on his pleas of guilty to manslaughter and shooting with intent to kill.

Assistant County Prosecutors Alonzo Snipes Jr. and Curtis L. Smith said McDavid shot Frederick Shortridge, 44, of Cleveland, four times last May 8 in an argument over the dice game bet.

They said that Walter Campbell, 38, a private policeman, was walking along Central Avenue when he witnessed the shooting and chased McDavid, who turned and fired one shot at Campbell.

Some Cincinnati Policemen Start Beat Walking March 7

CINCINNATI (AP) — On March 7, some Cincinnati policemen will return to the old system of walking beats, instead of patrolling them in cruisers.

The men will be involved in a pilot program in one of the Queen City's seven police districts which covers the downtown section and adjoining areas.

The program will be aimed at recapturing the knowledge and advantages gained by both police and community residents to see if the department should have men walking beats in all the districts. Los Angeles and other U. S. Cities have returned to the beat walking.

The pilot program, officially known as the Community Sector Team Policing Plan, has been hailed by Thomas Garner, chairman of the Cincinnati Human Relations Commission as "probably the most innovative idea the Cincinnati department has come up with in quite a while."

"It will bring the policeman back to the people," Safety Director Henry Sandman said that the team policing theory is "the most revolutionary concept in the distribution of manpower that's happened in the last 20 years."

Besides the daily meetings with persons in the district, the policemen will convene with them once a month in an open session in which crime and ways to solve it will be discussed.

The district policemen are undergoing a special training course to prepare them for the beat walking. The men already have been briefed by the CHRC on information concerning the district's community leaders, people, probable reactions to certain situations, residents' feeling towards police, and special area problems.

Garner said that during briefings the policemen have been "very much interested in what the department wants. I haven't seen this kind of enthusiasm from policemen in years."

He said he feels that the "new" system will make the average policeman's job easier.

"By knowing the people on an intimate basis, the people will be more inclined to help him get his work done," Garner said. "Not that they'll be informers, but crime won't go undetected."

Dear Abby: Hubby's Eyes Not For Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both in our mid-forties. I have noticed lately that William has taken to thoroughly looking women over from head to toe. I am a bit jealous, somewhat embarrassed and more than a little annoyed when he does this. Also, he's making a fool of himself. Now that William wears bifocal eyeglasses, all that looking up and down has become conspicuous to everyone. I am all thumbs with words, and anything I would say to him would sound silly, so I have said nothing. Have you any suggestions?

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Simply say, "William, dear, your ogling has become more conspicuous than ever since you've started wearing bifocals. If you must look, please be more subtle. You're making a fool of yourself."

DEAR ABBY: When I was a girl, my mother always told me I had bad breath. I grew up being terribly self-conscious about this and started chewing sugarless gum at an early age to insure myself against offending anyone.

It gave me confidence, and I learned how to chew gum inconspicuously. Most of the time I hold it in my mouth for hours at a time without chewing.

My husband does not like for me to chew gum at all. He says I look like a teeny-booper or a gum-cracking suburban housewife without a brain in her head.

He says if I loved him I would give up the gum. I say, I do love him, but if he loved me he would be more tolerant and allow me this one habit. What do you think?

TIGHT JAWS
DEAR TIGHT: Apparently your gum-chewing isn't as inconspicuous as you say it is or your husband wouldn't complain so much. While I have nothing against inconspicuous gum-chewing, there are other breath-fresheners on the market which could provide the same confidence, and eliminate the fuss around.

DEAR ABBY: About the person who has a friend who is a great talker:

My friend for 40 years would put her friend to shame. However, I believe the good Lord put everything on earth for a purpose, so I put my talkative friend to good use. Last Thanksgiving I invited him over to entertain my wife's relatives who are not only champion nonstop talkers themselves, but champion freeloaders in the bargain. My friend took on the whole lot of 'em and his raucous voice was the only one that could be heard above any combination of sounds made by the relatives, including the screams of babies.

Then to top it off, I asked one of the relatives if he'd be good enough to give my friend a lift some 20 blocks on his way home.

Study Clues In Columbus Dual Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Detectives believe Christina Mitchell was still asleep when a man slipped into her apartment and crept up heavily carpeted stairs with a butcher knife taken from the kitchen.

Homicide Lt. Richard Gordon said the 25-year-old housewife apparently was surprised since there was no sign of a struggle.

Mrs. Mitchell's partially clad body was found Tuesday on her bed, gagged with her hands tied. She was stabbed in the chest.

Her 8-month-old son Scott, also stabbed to death, was found in the bathroom.

Police said they had no definite suspects yet.

They expected laboratory reports today on fingerprints recovered from the murder weapon and footprints found outside the apartment.

About 40 detectives questioned residents of the near north side townhouse apartment complex Wednesday and scoured the area for clues.

They reportedly found a set of bloody fingerprints on a police emergency call box about two blocks from the murder scene but it was not known if they were connected with the crime.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed bids will be received by the Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio at the office of said Director until 12:00 noon, March 5, 1971 for furnishing a Police Cruiser for the Police Department of the City of Circleville, Ohio, according to the plans and specifications on file in said Safety Director's office. Ohio Jails Below Average On Untried Inmates

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some Ohio jails are overloaded with inmates awaiting trials or disposition of their cases, but the prison backlog is below the national average.

An Associated Press survey of 25 Ohio city and county lock-ups indicates about 40 per cent of their prisoners have not been sentenced, compared to a 52 per cent national average reported by the Justice Department.

The statewide percentage, however, conceals wide differences between individual jails.

For example, in Mahoning County, 113 of 138 prisoners, about 82 per cent, were awaiting sentencing. In Dayton's city jail, only 18 of 55 inmates, or 32 per cent, had not been sentenced.

In smaller jails the percentage was often much lower.

The 40 per cent statewide average is also deceptive because local jails are used only to hold prisoners until they are sentenced and sent to larger institutions.

In these cases the percentage of inmates awaiting trial is bound to be high.

The Justice Department report, based on U.S. Census Bureau figures for March, 1970, was part of a broad survey of general conditions in the nation's jails to be compiled later this year. The report will also cover the problems of overcrowding and inadequate or antiquated facilities.

Some jails in rural counties were going almost unused. A prisoner in the Hocking County jail, for example, was in de facto solitary confinement, the only inmate in a jail equipped to hold 45.

In localities where overcrowding is a problem, two basic causes are given — antiquated jails designed for the needs of half a century ago, and inability of the courts to handle the

About one third of the Ohio jails surveyed reported either that they were overcrowded or that overcrowding was sometimes a serious problem.

Overall, however, the jails listed a capacity to hold 2,400 prisoners compared to 2,000 inmates currently incarcerated.

Again, the figures vary widely from jail to jail.

Hamilton County, for example, was holding 335 prisoners in cells designed to accommodate 150, while the Dayton jail, with cells for 105 or more, had 55 inmates.

Several other counties are reducing bond schedules or releasing persons charged with misdemeanors on their own recognizance.

Some counties like Cuyahoga and Franklin have secured voter approval of bond issues to finance larger jails.

But Cuyahoga County will not have its new facility until 1975. With the present county jail bursting and the Cleveland city workhouse rapidly being filled with county prisoners, officials say something has to be done in the meantime.

A Criminal Justice Coordinating Council is working now on measures to streamline the court system and ease the strain on the jails.

Several other counties are reducing bond schedules or releasing persons charged with misdemeanors on their own recognizance.

State Rep. Chester T. Cruze R-68, Cincinnati, has introduced a bill in the General Assembly that would provide common pleas courts with "receivers" authorized to hear pre-trial motions. This could shorten many pre-trial jail stays and free more judges to help clear the overloaded court dockets.

Stans Says Penn Central Involvement 'Blind' To Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans says a blind trust he set up before joining the Cabinet has been "totally blind" although he has received information from companies whose securities are in the account.

Stans also declared in a six-page statement Wednesday that he fully disclosed all his financial holdings in a report to the Senate Commerce Committee Jan. 13, 1969 a few days before he was confirmed.

The secretary issued the statement three days after disclosure that he held 38,000 shares of Great Southwest Corp., a major Penn Central railroad subsidiary, in June 1970 when the administration was planning to save the railroad from bankruptcy with $200 million in federal loan guarantees.

Stans said in his statement that he had disqualified himself from any role in the Penn Central negotiations. The administration later abandoned the planned loan as politically risky.

Stans did not list any specific holdings in Great Southwest in his financial statement to the senate committee. But he did refer to an "undivided interest... of indeterminable value" in two partnerships, Staats & Co. and Glore Forgan Staats & Co.

Glore Forgan was the Penn Central's investment adviser for most of the past decade.

In his statement Wednesday, Stans said the partnerships did not own any great Southwest stock when he was confirmed but did have options on the stock of Macco Development Corp., another Pennsy subsidiary later merged with Great Southwest.

The Macco options were traded for Great Southwest shares when the two companies merged in March 1969, Stans said, and the Great Southwest stock was divided up and assigned to Glore Forgan partners in June.

The House Banking and Currency Committee in a staff report on the Penn Central failure issued over the weekend listed Stans along with several other partners and officers of Glore Forgan as holding 38,000 shares in Great Southwest.

In commendation, the mayor thanked Street Commissioner Boyd Marshall and Rance Greene, street supervisor, for the good job they had done in keeping streets and alleys open during the recent snows.

Present at the session in addition to the mayor and returning council member were Gail Goldsberry, Neil Kern, James Lovett, Lloyd Meyer and Clark Mary E. Meyer.

Wren Dribbling Gives Miami Win Over KSU

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Miami basketball Coach Darrell Hedrick noticed the Kent State players weren't going after the 5-foot-9 guard Mike Wren.

So with the Redskins holding a shaky 63-61 lead and 1:50 left to play Hedrick decided to have Wren keep the ball.

The strategy worked and Miami nipped the Golden Flashes 65-63 Wednesday night to clinch at least a share of the Mid-American Conference title.

Wren said teammate Darrell Dunlap "told me 'go out and keep the ball, they're not coming after you,' so I did."

"I couldn't believe it when they didn't come out after me," the senior from Athens said. "I was getting mighty tired just dribbling."

Wren dribbled until he was fouled by Kent's Ruben Vance with 10 seconds to go. He then sank the two free throws to ice the win for Miami.

Tim Meyer paced the Redskins with 12 points and Tom Jones was high for Kent with 15.

The win was Miami's eighth in a row and gave them an 8-1 league mark.

Second place Western Michigan improved its MAC record to 4-2 by whipping Bowling Green 78-64 Wednesday night and kept its drive for a MAC co-championship alive. The Broncos must win all four of their remaining league games to tie Miami for the crown.

WMU senior center Earl Jenkins topped all scorers with 27 points and raised his career point total to 1,016. Jim Conally led the losing effort for Bowling Green (1-6) with 18 points.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, Xavier edged crosstown rival Cincinnati 66-65 Wednesday night on two free throws with five seconds to play by Bob Fullerton, who had not scored a point in the game.

"I didn't want to go up there," Fullerton said later. "I was nervous . . . scared to death."

The Bearcats had taken a 65-64 advantage with 21 seconds to go on a jump shot by Steve Wenderfer. Then Fullerton, a 57 per cent shooter from the line, was awarded the free throws after one official had called a jump ball and the other signaled a foul.

"Hail Mary did it and, of course, Bob Fullerton," said Xavier Coach George Krajack.

In Ohio Conference action, Otterbein tied its all-time scoring record while trouncing Mount Union 113-90; Baldwin-Wallace defeated Ohio Wesleyan as sophomore forward Dean Martin pumped in 29 points, and Wittenberg, paced by Jim Thrasher and Larry Baker with 27 and 26 points, respectively, walloped Heidelberg 91-69.

Defiance recorded its fifth Mid-Ohio conference in nine outings by beating Bluffton 105-82 behind the 26-point performance of Rich Nasziger.

Ashland won its 15th consecutive game at the expense of Ohio Northern, 95-63.

Other games: Urbana 80, Ohio Dominican 78; Washington & Jefferson 67, John Carroll 63, and Indiana State 89, Akron 71.

Tiger Cagers Meet Trace For SCO Title

Coach John Lawhorn and his league leading Circleville Tigers cage squad will enter the den of the Panthers of Miami Trace Friday night in quest of the South Central Ohio League championship.

Circleville is leading the league with a record of 7-2 while Miami Trace and Washington C. H. are tied for second spot with 6-3 marks in the books.

A win for the Tigers will give them sole possession of the league crown. A Trace victory would throw the league into a possible three-way tie depending on how Washington C. H. fares Friday night.

In the first encounter between the Tigers and the Panthers the decision went to Trace, 52-51, in a game that saw the Red and Black do a fine defensive job but falter in the offensive department.

"We know that Trace will be sky high for the game as they want a share of the title," Coach Lawhorn stated. "They have size, defense and bench," he continued, "but our boys are determined not to share the crown with anyone."

Trace is powered by Steve Bihl, 6-foot-1 forward, who must be contained if the Panthers attack is to be slowed down. Jeff Blake, 6-foot-1 will be at the other forward post, Kenny Goodson, 6-foot-4, at center with Greg Hedgebeth, 6-foot-1, and Dewayne Jones, 5-foot-11, at the guards.

Circleville will counter with Terry Morrison, 5-foot-9, and Tom Bowers, 5-foot-10, at the guards, John Hunt, 6-foot-2, at center and Dave Truex, 5-foot-11 and Don Valentine, 5-foot-11, will be up front.

Tiger bench strength will come from Mike Hamrick, 6-foot; Jim Neal, 5-foot-9; Greg Roll, 5-foot-8; Kent Wolf, 6-foot-1; Dennis Jackson, 6-foot and Randy Sprout, 5-foot-11.

Trace will utilize a 1-2-2 zone and a tight man to man defense in an attempt to stop the offense of Circleville. They also like to use a 1-2-1 press when necessary.

Tiger coaches named Tom Bowers and Dave Truex as defensive players of the week and John Hunt won offensive honors for their efforts in the Wilmington contest.

Duquesne Stops LaSalle, 95-86

By TED MEIER

The Debonair Dukes of Duquesne are rolling along smoothly on the high road in college basketball.

They chalked up their 14th in a row by beating LaSalle 95-86 Wednesday night, thereby strengthening their chances of being invited to one of the two major post-season tournaments, the NCAA and the NIT.

Jarrett Durham and Mickey Davis, who did most of the clutch shooting and playmaking, sparked the nationally 10th-ranked Pittsburghers over the 11th-ranked Explorers of Philadelphia.

The Dukes, now 18-2, have bowled over William and Mary, Xavier of Ohio, St. Francis, Pa., Notre Dame, Cleveland State, St. Bonaventure, DePaul, Creighton, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Villanova, Providence, Rhode Island and LaSalle in a row. They have four regular season games left, against St. Peters, Boston College, Niagara and Detroit.

South Carolina, North Carolina and Louisville, the only other teams in the Associated Press Top Twenty to set action, also won.

South Carolina, No. 7, whipped N.C. State 79-63 behind

John Roche's 41 points. North Carolina, No. 8, overpowered Maryland 100-76 and Louisville, No. 19, tightened its hold on first place in the Missouri Valley Conference by routing Drake 94-52.

Miami of Ohio clinched at last a tie for the Mid-American Conference title by shading Kent State 65-63 on four points by Steve Handy in the closing minutes. It was the eighth straight for Miami Redskins.

Will Robinson threw in 32 points to lead West Virginia over Virginia Tech 93-82.

In other games, Villanova drubbed Canisius 82-59, Syracuse tripped St. John's of New York 78-73, St. Bonaventure trampled Creighton 104-84, Rutgers overwhelmed Army 76-40, Navy humbled American U. 83-66, West Texas hammered Pan American 96-64 and Xavier shaded Cincinnati, its crosstown rival, 66-65 on Bob Fullerton's two free throws with five seconds left.

McNally, Cuellar Hold Out But Yaz Signs 3-Year Pact

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, the left-handed half of Baltimore's pitching punch, appear headed for holdouts this spring.

And even if they eventually get what they want, their combined salaries probably won't match the total Carl Yastrzemski is working for this year.

Yastrzemski, the Boston slugger who missed winning the American League batting title by .0003 last season, signed a three-year contract Wednesday that may make him the highest paid player in baseball.

"I would not have signed a three-year contract," said Yaz, "unless I got what I wanted."

What Yaz wanted was estimated at something over $150,000 annually. His three-year pact may be worth a total of $500,000 which would be about $167,000 each year.

All Dick O'Connell, the Red Sox general manager would say was that the pact made Yastrzemski "the highest paid player in the American League."

National League stars Willie Mays and Bob Gibson are thought to be in the same salary range.

Meanwhile, McNally, who was 16 days late for training camp last year when he finally agreed to a $65,000 pact, seems intent on reaching $100,000 this time around after his third straight 20-victory season. He is being represented in negotiations by a Cleveland management firm.

"I would say we are not yet close to an agreement," said Harry Dalton, the Orioles' front office boss.

Cuellar, like McNally a 24-game winner last year, wants a $25,000 raise to $60,000, about $10,000 more than Dalton is offering.

Boog Powell and Frank Robinson are also unsigned Orioles. Minnesota added catchers Paul Ratliff and George Mitterwald and relief ace Stan Williams, but are still far apart in negotiations with slugger Tony Oliva and pitcher Jim Perry.

Oliva is asking for $100,000 and Perry, the Cy Young Award winner last year, wants $90,000—about $30,000 more than Cal Griffith is offering.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees signed pitcher Mel Stottlemyre for $75,000, and Pittsburgh added three players including pitcher Luke Walker and first baseman Bob Robertson.

Alston Likes His Dodgers, Sees Cincy Team To Beat

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
DARTTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Walt Alston, the dean of major league baseball managers beginning his 18th one-year contract with Los Angeles, hints the Dodgers could be the Cincinnati Reds of 1971.

With youngsters like Bernie Carbo, John Bench, Wayne Simpson and Don Gullett, the Reds ran away with the National League Western Division title last year.

"I don't know if we've got that much young talent," said Alston while packing his bags Wednesday for the Vero Beach, Fla., training site of the Dodgers.

"In a way, we're like the Reds, who waited for their youngsters to mature and then it happened. It could happen to us, too," he said.

Alston ticked off the names of

Billy Grabarkewitz, Steve Garvey, Bill Buckner and Bill Russell.

Despite his optimism, Alston figures the Reds are the team to beat and worries about Cincinnati exploding to a big, early lead in the race.

"We can't afford to let that happen again. The Reds do have the best talent right now, if their pitchers don't have too much sore arm trouble," Alston said.

It was sore arms that cost the Reds the pitching services of Jim Merritt, Jim McGlothlin and Simpson in their World Series loss to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Dodgers have swung from a team with great pitching in the days of Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax to a better-hitting club. The acquisition of controversial Richie Allen from St. Louis should provide Los Angeles with more power this year.

What about Alston's temperament and where would the problem slugger play?

"I don't think there is anything vicious about Allen. I think he's happy in Los Angeles and we're happy to have him."

"If I had to start the season today, Wes Parker would be at first and Allen in the outfield. I will have to decide where to play him in spring training," the balding, gray-haired manager said.

Muhammed Ali Ready To Fight
MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Muhammad Ali's eyes got big as silver dollars when his physical condition was questioned by the President of Madison Square Garden Boxing.

"Don't worry 'bout me," Ali said. "If you want to get poor quick, go bet $10,000 on Joe Frazier."

IT'S history in the making, for this runner, Roger Bannister, a 25-year-old medical student, is breaking the tape at Oxford, England, in the first three-minute mile, 3 minutes 59.4 seconds—the first under-four-minute mile in history. The date is May 6, 1954, at a four-lap track at Oxford. Bannister, competing for a British Amateur Athletic Association team against Oxford, put together quarter miles of 57.5 seconds, 1 minute 7 seconds, 1 minute 02.3 seconds and 58.9 seconds.

Musselman Winningest Cage Coach

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Bill Musselman sat in eighth grade science class and dreamed of being a winning college basketball coach. The dream's a reality now.

"I never was much for science so I day-dreamed of winning a national championship and maybe even beating Adolph Rupp's record," said the coach of seventh-ranked Ashland College.

Musselman hasn't reached Rupp, but he's moving into range. He's now the winningest small college coach, percentage-wise, with 124 victories and 29 losses for .810. Only Rupp, the Kentucky baron, has a better mark, .824 on 850 triumphs and 181 setbacks, among the major schools.

Musselman, 30, has put muscle in Ashland basketball in a unique way — converting junior college scoring hotshots into defensive dandies.

Defense is Musselman's bag. His Eagles, who won 14 straight for a 20-2 record, are on top of the nation's small college defenses for the fifth straight season. They are giving up 52 points a game.

"On defense you can never have an off night. When your shooting's off, there is nothing you can do about it," he said.

Musselman's starters, 6-foot-4 Bubba Jones, 6-4 David Jones, 6-7 Bob Spivery, 6-6 Earl Hill and 6-7 Gary Ferguson, all were junior college scoring aces.

David Jones and Hill came from Gulf Coast, Fla., Junior College. Bubba Jones is from Fashion Institute, N.Y., Ferguson from Lindsay-Wilson, Ky., and Spivery from Grand View, Iowa.

"Sure, I have to sell these big scorers on defense. But it's a real challenge to be a member of the nation's best defensive team. We've got a national reputation now and it's easier," Musselman said.

Ashland has finished among the nation's top ten for the last four years. The Eagles were voted No. 1 in The Associated Press small college poll in 1969.

Lee Trevino Determined At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — There was an undercurrent of grim determination beneath the wisecracking, fast-talking exterior as Lee Trevino teed off in the first-round of the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament today.

"I've got to get it going," said the happy-go-lucky Mexican-American, a great local favorite.

"I haven't played much this year, really only two tournaments, and that's not like me. I play all the time, everyday. But I haven't played much this year and I've had some troubles putting. I played great in Hawaii, but I couldn't get the ball in the hole."

"But that's coming around now. Putting great. Just great. It happens every year when I get to Tucson. The way I play here, I might have to move out here."

The brash Trevino, a native of desert border country similar to this in El Paso, Tex., has won the last two Tucson Opens on the 7,305-yard, par 72 Tucson National Golf Club course and was a heavy favorite to make it three in a row.

The tough, talkative character, with an engaging grin, has finished only two tournaments this season, eighth in Los Angeles and fourth in the Hawaiian Open.

He's been out of action the rest of the time, first because of the illness of his mother and last week because of the flu.

"Time is running out," said Trevino, the leading money winner and Vardon Trophy champion last year. "One of my major goals is to win a tournament early in the season, before the Tournament of Champions so I can get in that tournament."

New York Nets Defeat Squires; Win 128-120

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It took Rick Barry, Bill Melchionni and Manny Leaks awhile to get going, through no fault of their own. But once they got started they were too much for the Virginia Squires.

With Barry and Melchionni scoring 27 points each and Leaks contributing 26, the New York Nets beat the Squires 128-120 Wednesday night in an American Basketball Association game whose start was delayed more than an hour until a league official could arrive.

The league official and a local college referee handed the game.

Joe Caldwell scored 24 points as Carolina overcame 13-for-30 foul shooting and beat Texas 116-111 in the only other ABA game.

The tough, talkative character, with an engaging grin, has finished only two tournaments this season, eighth in Los Angeles and fourth in the Hawaiian Open.

He's been out of action the rest of the time, first because of the illness of his mother and last week because of the flu.

"Time is running out," said Trevino, the leading money winner and Vardon Trophy champion last year. "One of my major goals is to win a tournament early in the season, before the Tournament of Champions so I can get in that tournament."

Haley May Become BGSU Cage Mentor

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Assistant Coach Pat Haley appears to be the leading candidate for the Bowling Green State University basketball job.

Haley's current boss, Bob Conibear said Wednesday he is quitting at the end of the season after compiling a three-year record of 29-33 with the Falcons.

New Bowling Green Athletic Director Bob Bell admitted Haley would be a prime candidate for the position. Haley was a former Falcon star who left as University of Dayton assistant coach to join Conibear's staff this season.

Bell said he had offered Conibear a teaching post in the Bowling Green physical education department, but the coach has not made up his mind on his plans.

Lee Trevino Determined At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — There was an undercurrent of grim determination beneath the wisecracking, fast-talking exterior as Lee Trevino teed off in the first-round of the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament today.

"I've got to get it going," said the happy-go-lucky Mexican-American, a great local favorite.

"I haven't played much this year, really only two tournaments, and that's not like me. I play all the time, everyday. But I haven't played much this year and I've had some troubles putting. I played great in Hawaii, but I couldn't get the ball in the hole."

"But that's coming around now. Putting great. Just great. It happens every year when I get to Tucson. The way I play here, I might have to move out here."

The brash Trevino, a native of desert border country similar to this in El Paso, Tex., has won the last two Tucson Opens on the 7,305-yard, par 72 Tucson National Golf Club course and was a heavy favorite to make it three in a row.

The tough, talkative character, with an engaging grin, has finished only two tournaments this season, eighth in Los Angeles and fourth in the Hawaiian Open.

Wren Dribbling Gives Miami Win Over KSU

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Miami basketball Coach Darrell Hedrick noticed the Kent State players weren't going after the 5-foot-9 guard Mike Wren.

So with the Redskins holding a shaky 63-61 lead and 1:50 left to play Hedrick decided to have Wren keep the ball.

The strategy worked and Miami nipped the Golden Flashes 65-63 Wednesday night to clinch at least a share of the Mid-American Conference title.

Wren said teammate Darrell Dunlap "told me 'go out and keep the ball, they're not coming after you,' so I did."

"I couldn't believe it when they didn't come out after me," the senior from Athens said. "I was getting mighty tired just dribbling."

Wren dribbled until he was fouled by Kent's Ruben Vance with 10 seconds to go. He then sank the two free throws to ice the win for Miami.

Tim Meyer paced the Redskins with 12 points and Tom Jones was high for Kent with 15.

The win was Miami's eighth in a row and gave them an 8-1 league mark.

Second place Western Michigan improved its MAC record to 4-2 by whipping Bowling Green 78-64 Wednesday night and kept its drive for a MAC co-championship alive. The Broncos must win all four of their remaining league games to tie Miami for the crown.

WMU senior center Earl Jenkins topped all scorers with 27 points and raised his career point total to 1,016. Jim Conally led the losing effort for Bowling Green (1-6) with 18 points.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, Xavier edged crosstown rival Cincinnati 66-65 Wednesday night on two free throws with five seconds to play by Bob Fullerton, who had not scored a point in the game.

"I didn't want to go up there," Fullerton said later. "I was nervous . . . scared to death."

The Bearcats had taken a 65-44 advantage with 21 seconds to go on a jump shot by Steve Wenderfer. Then Fullerton, a 57 per cent shooter from the line, was awarded the free throws after one official had called a jump ball and the other signaled a foul.

"Hail Mary did it and, of course, Bob Fullerton," said Xavier Coach George Krajack.

In Ohio Conference action, Otterbein tied its all-time scoring record while trouncing Mount Union 113-90; Baldwin-Wallace defeated Ohio Wesleyan as sophomore forward Dean Martin pumped in 29 points, and Wittenberg, paced by Jim Thrasher and Larry Baker with 27 and 26 points, respectively, walloped Heidelberg 91-69.

Defiance recorded its fifth Mid-Ohio conference in nine outings by beating Bluffton 105-82 behind the 26-point performance of Rich Nasziger.

Ashland won its 15th consecutive game at the expense of Ohio Northern, 95-63.

Other games: Urbana 80, Ohio Dominican 78; Washington & Jefferson 67, John Carroll 63, and Indiana State 89, Akron 71.

Tiger Cagers Meet Trace For SCO Title

Coach John Lawhorn and his league leading Circleville Tigers cage squad will enter the den of the Panthers of Miami Trace Friday night in quest of the South Central Ohio League championship.

Circleville is leading the league with a record of 7-2 while Miami Trace and Washington C. H. are tied for second spot with 6-3 marks in the books.

A win for the Tigers will give them sole possession of the league crown. A Trace victory would throw the league into a possible three-way tie depending on how Washington C. H. fares Friday night.

In the first encounter between the Tigers and the Panthers the decision went to Trace, 52-51, in a game that saw the Red and Black do a fine defensive job but falter in the offensive department.

"We know that Trace will be sky high for the game as they want a share of the title," Coach Lawhorn stated. "They have size, defense and bench," he continued, "but our boys are determined not to share the crown with anyone."

Trace is powered by Steve Bihl, 6-foot-1 forward, who must be contained if the Panthers attack is to be slowed down. Jeff Blake, 6-foot-1 will be at the other forward post, Kenny Goodson, 6-foot-4, at center with Greg Hedgebeth, 6-foot-1, and Dewayne Jones, 5-foot-11, at the guards.

Circleville will counter with Terry Morrison, 5-foot-9, and Tom Bowers, 5-foot-10, at the guards, John Hunt, 6-foot-2, at center and Dave Truex, 5-foot-11, and Don Valentine, 5-foot-11, will be up front.

Tiger bench strength will come from Mike Hamrick, 6-foot; Jim Neal, 5-foot-9; Greg Roll, 5-foot-8; Kent Wolf, 6-foot-1; Dennis Jackson, 6-foot and Randy Sprout, 5-foot-11.

Trace will utilize a 1-2-2 zone and a tight man to man defense in an attempt to stop the offense of Circleville. They also like to use a 1-2-1 press when necessary.

Tiger coaches named Tom Bowers and Dave Truex as defensive players of the week and John Hunt won offensive honors for their efforts in the Wilmington contest.

Duquesne Stops LaSalle, 95-86

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Debonair Dukes of Duquesne are rolling along smoothly on the high road in college basketball.

They chalked up their 14th in a row by beating LaSalle 95-86 Wednesday night, thereby strengthening their chances of being invited to one of the two major post-season tournaments, the NCAA and the NIT.

Jarrett Durham and Mickey Davis, who did most of the clutch shooting and playmaking, sparked the nationally 10th-ranked Pittsburghers over the 11th-ranked Explorers of Philadelphia.

The Dukes, now 18-2, have bowled over William and Mary, Xavier of Ohio, St. Francis, Pa., Notre Dame, Cleveland State, St. Bonaventure, DePaul, Creighton, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Villanova, Providence, Rhode Island and LaSalle in a row. They have four regular season games left, against St. Peters, Boston College, Niagara and Detroit.

South Carolina, North Carolina and Louisville, the only other teams in the Associated Press Top Twenty to see action, also won.

South Carolina, No. 7, whipped N.C. State 79-63 behind

John Roche's 41 points. North Carolina, No. 8, overpowered Maryland 100-76 and Louisville, No. 19, tightened its hold on first place in the Missouri Valley Conference by routing Drake 94-52.

Miami of Ohio clinched at last a tie for the Mid-American Conference title by shading Kent State 65-63 on four points by Steve Handy in the closing minutes. It was the eighth straight for Miami Redskins.

Will Robinson threw in 32 points to lead West Virginia over Virginia Tech 93-82.

In other games, Villanova drubbed Canisius 82-59, Syracuse tripped St. John's of New York 78-73, St. Bonaventure trampled Creighton 104-84, Rutgers overwhelmed Army 76-40, Navy humbled American U. 83-66, West Texas hammered Pan American 96-64 and Xavier shaded Cincinnati, its crosstown rival, 66-65 on Bob Fullerton's two free throws with five seconds left.

Defiance recorded its fifth Mid-Ohio conference in nine outings by beating Bluffton 105-82 behind the 26-point performance of Rich Nasziger.

Ashland won its 15th consecutive game at the expense of Ohio Northern, 95-63.

McNally, Cuellar Hold Out But Yaz Signs 3-Year Pact

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, the left-handed half of Baltimore's pitching punch, appear headed for holdouts this spring.

And even if they eventually get what they want, their combined salaries probably won't match the total Carl Yastrzemski is working for this year.

Yastrzemski, the Boston slugger who missed winning the American League batting title by .0003 last season, signed a three-year contract Wednesday that may make him the highest paid player in baseball.

"I would not have signed a three-year contract," said Yaz, "unless I got what I wanted."

What Yaz wanted was estimated at something over $150,000 annually. His three-year pact may be worth a total of $500,000 which would be about $167,000 each year.

All Dick O'Connell, the Red Sox general manager would say was that the pact made Yastrzemski "the highest paid player in the American League."

National League stars Willie Mays and Bob Gibson are thought to be in the same salary range.

Meanwhile, McNally, who was 16 days late for training camp last year when he finally agreed to a $65,000 pact, seems intent on reaching $100,000 this time around after his third straight 20-victory season. He is being represented in negotiations by a Cleveland management firm.

"I would say we are not yet close to an agreement," said Harry Dalton, the Orioles' front office boss.

Cuellar, like McNally a 24-game winner last year, wants a $25,000 raise to $60,000, about $10,000 more than Dalton is offering.

Boog Powell and Frank Robinson are also unsigned Orioles.

Minnesota added catchers Paul Ratliff and George Mitterwald and relief ace Stan Williams, but are still far apart in negotiations with slugger Tony Oliva and pitcher Jim Perry.

Oliva is asking for $100,000 and Perry, the Cy Young Award winner last year, wants $90,000—about $30,000 more than Cal Griffith is offering.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees signed pitcher Mel Stottlemyre for $75,000, and Pittsburgh added three players including pitcher Luke Walker and first baseman Bob Robertson.

Defiance recorded its fifth Mid-Ohio conference in nine outings by beating Bluffton 105-82 behind the 26-point performance of Rich Nasziger.

Ashland won its 15th consecutive game at the expense of Ohio Northern, 95-63.

Other games: Urbana 80, Ohio Dominican 78; Washington & Jefferson 67, John Carroll 63, and Indiana State 89, Akron 71.

Alston Likes His Dodgers, Sees Cincy Team To Beat

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

DARTTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Walt Alston, the dean of major league baseball managers beginning his 18th one-year contract with Los Angeles, hints the Dodgers could be the Cincinnati Reds of 1971.

With youngsters like Bernie Carbo, John Bench, Wayne Simpson and Don Gullett, the Reds ran away with the National League Western Division title last year.

"I don't know if we've got that much young talent," said Alston while packing his bags Wednesday for the Vero Beach, Fla., training site of the Dodgers.

"In a way, we're like the Reds, who waited for their youngsters to mature and then it happened. It could happen to us, too," he said.

Alston ticked off the names of

Billy Grabarkewitz, Steve Garvey, Bill Buckner and Bill Russell.

Despite his optimism, Alston figures the Reds are the team to beat and worries about Cincinnati exploding to a big, early lead in the race.

"We can't afford to let that happen again. The Reds do have the best talent right now, if their pitchers don't have too much sore arm trouble," Alston said.

It was sore arms that cost the Reds the pitching services of Jim Merritt, Jim McGlothlin and Simpson in their World Series loss to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Dodgers have swung from a team with great pitching in the days of Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax to a better-hitting club. The acquisition of controversial Richie Allen from St. Louis should provide Los Angeles with more power this year.

What about Allen's temperament and where would the problem slugger play?

"I don't think there is anything vicious about Allen. I think he's happy in Los Angeles and we're happy to have him."

"If I had to start the season today, Wes Parker would be at first and Allen in the outfield. I will have to decide where to play him in spring training," the balding, gray-haired manager said.

ORDINANCE NO. 196-70
AN ORDINANCE APPROVING, ADOPTING AND ENACTING THE CODIFIED ORDINANCES OF CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO, 1970, REPEALING ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH, AND PUBLISHING THE ENACTED MATTER AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.
WHEREAS, The Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, has had the matter of codification and general revision of the ordinances before it for some time past; and
WHEREAS, it has heretofore entered into a contract with the Walter L. Drake Company to prepare and publish such codification; and
WHEREAS, the codification of such ordinances, together with the new matter to be adopted, the matters to be amended and those to be repealed are before the Council;

BE ORDAINED BY the Council of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio:
SECTION 1: The ordinances of the City of Circleville, Ohio, of a general and permanent nature, as revised, codified, rearranged and consolidated into component codes, chapters and sections are hereby approved, adopted and enacted as the Codified Ordinances of Circleville, Ohio, 1970.
One book-form copy of the Codified Ordinances shall be certified as correct by the Mayor and the clerk of Council, attached to this ordinance as a part hereof, and filed with the permanent ordinance records of the City of Circleville, Ohio.

SECTION 2: The provisions of this ordinance, including all provisions of the 1970 Codified Ordinances, shall be in full force and effect immediately upon its passage by the Council, and shall remain in effect until two-thirds of all members elected to Council, and approval by Mayor; otherwise it shall take effect from and after the earliest period allowed by law. All ordinances and resolutions or parts thereof, which are in conflict or inconsistent with any provision of the 1970 Codified Ordinances are hereby repealed as of the effective date of this ordinance except as follows:
a) The enactment of the 1970 Codified Ordinances shall not be construed to affect a right or liability accrued or incurred under any legislative enactment prior to the effective date of such enactment or an action or proceeding for the enforcement of such right or liability. Such enactment shall not be construed to relieve any person from punishment for an act committed in violation of any such legislative provision, nor to affect an indictment or prosecution therefor. For such purposes, any such legislative provision shall continue in full force notwithstanding its repeal for the purpose of revision and recodification.
b) The repeal provided above shall not affect:
1. The grant or creation of a franchise, license, right, easement or privilege.
2. The purchase, sale, lease or transfer of property.
3. The appropriation or expenditure of money or promise or guarantee of payment.
4. The assumption of any contract or obligation.
5. The issuance and delivery of any bonds obligations or other instruments of indebtedness.
6. The levy or imposition of taxes, assessments or charges.
7. The establishment, naming, vacating or grade level of any street or public way.
8. The dedication of property or plat approval.
9. The annexation or detachment of territory.
10. Any legislation enacted subsequent to August 17, 1970.

SECTION 3: The clerk of Council, pursuant to Ohio R. C. 731.23, shall cause to be published in a manner required by law a summary of the new matter contained in the Codified Ordinances. Any section of the 1970 Codified Ordinances without a legislative history at the end thereof indicates that such section contains new matter ordained by this Adopting Ordinance.
SECTION 4: This Ordinance is declared to be an emergency measure, necessary for the preservation of the health, safety and welfare of the City of Circleville and the inhabitants thereof, and for the further reason that there exists an urgent need for the earliest publication and distribution of the Codified Ordinances to the officials of the City, so as to facilitate administration, and daily operation and to avoid legal entanglements; therefore this Ordinance shall take effect and be in force upon its passage and approval.
Passed this 14th day of December, 1970.

Seek To Widen Program For Ohio Depressed Areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A group of Ohio financiers has urged the Ohio Department of Development to lift a $5 million federal limitation on tax-free bonds to aid the state's economically depressed areas.

The suggestion followed a meeting called this week by Development Director David C. Sweet to examine ways of aiding the state's rural and inner-city areas.

The tax-free bond program, supervised by the federal government, permits counties and municipalities to issue tax-free bonds to spur industrial development.

The federal government clamped a $5 million ceiling on the program in 1969 after it was discovered the internal Revenue Service was losing tax money.

Sweet said the 11 bankers, bondsmen and attorneys felt a "relaxation" of the limitation might be established for economically depressed areas.

After hearing suggestions from the group, Sweet said he is considering a permanent council to explore problems of the state's economically depressed areas and make recommendations.

"I was very pleased with the ideas the group generated," he said.

To derive maximum economic benefit for the depressed areas and the entire state, he said he will work closely with the projected National Environmental Health Center for Cincinnati.

He foresees the center providing new technology that will be used to create new businesses and provide more jobs for the state.

In addition, he said, the center will provide new concepts that "will be a tremendous boom in controlling pollution" in the nation.

The center, which will act as the research arm of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, will employ 750 persons. The agency is currently seeking $28 million from Congress to establish the facility.

He said the department plans to stay on top of the center's research to avoid some mistakes of past administrations.

Interest-Rate Bids Asked By State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio will take interest-rate bids from state banks for deposit of $70 million in inactive funds, but Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says the state doesn't have to accept bids considered too low.

Brown told the Ohio Board of Deposits Wednesday it "doesn't have to let out money on interest rates that would raise eyebrows. If the bids are not high enough, the board doesn't have to accept them."

The board decided bids will be opened March 15 and funds awarded prior to April 5.

Banks interested in the money, representing state funds that will not be used over a two-year period, often submit combination bids with two or more interest rates for separate amounts of money.

Brown said the board could accept a bid carrying the highest interest rate and reject one from the same bank offering a lower interest rate on another portion of money.

Brown is a member of the board along with State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

67 Readmitted To High School After Ruckus

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Sixty-seven pupils will be readmitted to Hamilton Garfield High School Monday after completing three-day suspensions stemming from racial fights there last week.

Principal Robert Kinch said that the pupils began serving the suspensions Wednesday. He said he recommended that five of the 67 be expelled, but the superintendent is the only person who can order expulsions.

Following the incidents last Wednesday and Thursday, Kinch said he had a list of those involved.

Five persons, including three teaching staff members, received minor injuries in the scuffles. Three pupils were arrested.

No trouble has been reported since Thursday afternoon.

Trio Burgles Wrong Dwelling

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two men and a woman have been charged with burglary of an inhabited dwelling—the apartment of Cincinnati Police Specialist Ken Davis.

Charged were Don Davis, 21; Willie Williams, 25, and Jo Ann Wright, 24; all of Cincinnati.

Davis said that when he went home Tuesday night he saw a light in his apartment, a window had been broken and an auto was backed up to the window. He said he drew his gun, catching one man inside and another outside the apartment. A woman was found in the car.

Davis said that his television, some money and some whisky were stacked by the window.

Push Ohio Road Safety

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Eugene P. O'Grady, newly appointed state director of highway safety, has pledged an aggressive campaign to reduce traffic deaths in Ohio.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the board of control of the Greater Cleveland Safety Council Wednesday, O'Grady said his office would unveil a new program of highway safety at a state meeting of safety officials in April.

He said that at the same time Gov. John J. Gilligan will name a special committee to study traffic safety problems in Ohio. He added that the governor "is committed to waging an aggressive campaign for traffic safety in Ohio."

O'Grady said that he would make some recommendations at the April meeting about uniform court treatment for traffic offenders.

"I personally feel there has been too much wrist slapping in the past and would hope to put some teeth in the system," O'Grady said.

Kitka To Head OFT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ray Kitka of Cleveland was elected president of the Ohio Federation of Teachers Wednesday at the concluding session of the group's three-day annual convention here. He succeeds Marguerite Holmes of Cleveland.

He recalled that technology for the Xerox Corp. was developed at the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, but that the company located its facilities outside of Ohio.

"If we had the economic environment that encouraged retention, we would have been able to capture the new industry before it went elsewhere," Sweet said.

He said the department's job will be to make sure new businesses growing out of the technology locate their facilities in Ohio.

State Workers Seek Pay Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A State Employees Union official says the time has come for the legislature to meet its commitment to the thousands of people who "relegate themselves to near poverty" by serving the state.

Executive Director Hershel M. Sigall said a bill will be introduced in the Ohio Senate proposing a 65-cents-per-hour, across-the-board pay increase for all state employees.

He told newsmen Wednesday this would boost all state employees' wages $1,352 per year and estimated the cost of the package at nearly $100 million.

State Funds Mishandled?

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The Horvitz group of newspapers says the state of Ohio has $17.6 million in checking accounts at 15 banks in six major Ohio cities that are not drawing interest.

The newspapers reported Wednesday in a copyrighted story by Bob Snyder that the accounts range from $50,000 to $2.5 million in banks at Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo, Akron and Dayton. The story said some of the accounts are 20 years old.

Deputy Treasurer James Dayton was quoted as saying, "this is done as a service to the banking industry in the state ... I guess the money could be invested in interest-paying federal securities."

Deputy State Auditor Richard Borror was quoted by the newspapers as saying keeping such amounts in checking accounts "is wholly unwarranted. The money is just sitting dormant while the state is in desperate need of funds."

The money is in "active deposits" and is payable on demand and supposedly in constant use by the treasurer's office, the newspapers said.
